

Ike Gives Congress 8-Point Program

Construction Schedule Told

Half-Million Programmed For Work at Whiteman

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Contractors received word today that about 75 million dollars is scheduled to be spent by Army Engineers on military and civil works construction in Kansas and Missouri in 1958.

In a talk prepared for a meeting of the Kansas Contractors Assn., Col. L. E. Laurion, district engineer, said military work was expected to run about 25 million dollars, exclusive of housing which could add another 25 million.

As to the civil works picture, he said the program "is still somewhat indefinite since it is being reviewed in the light of budgetary considerations."

But, he said, "as far as we can tell at the present, our civil works program this year will be a bit smaller, dollar-wise."

In listing military projects planned for this year, he said the work was contingent on available funds. He gave these programmed construction amounts:

Ft. Leavenworth, $5,000,000; Ft. Riley, $3,500,000; Ft. Leonard Wood, $21,500,000; Forbes AFB, Topeka, $1,125,000; McConnell AFB, Wichita, $500,000; Schilling AFB, Salina, $3,000,000; Richards-Gebaur AFB, Grandview, Mo., $1,500,000; Whiteman AFB, Knobnoster, Mo., $500,000.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: K. U. Love, vice-president; Harry Naugel, treasurer, and Mrs. Leonard Peabody, executive secretary.

The seven new members of the board elected by ballot on Dec. 13, were present and introduced. They are: T. W. Cloney, Jack Cunningham, Kennie Miller, Jack Shoemaker, Miss Roseanne Dugan, John Ryan and Mrs. Olen Monsees. They replace the following retiring members: Dr. A. R. Maddox, Abe Silverman, Clinton Muller, Mrs. Lucille White, Royal Cowger and Maurice Hogan.

The Sedalia-Pettis County United Fund board of directors is composed of 21 elected members who serve for three years, with seven members retiring each year and the vacancies being filled by seven new members.

Naugel gave a report on the condition of the 1957 United Fund campaign at the present time. He reported that $56,393.20 had been paid and pledged in the 1957 campaign, which is far short of the $75,750 goal. He stated that there were still several firms and organizations to report.

Mrs. Bertha Rose Welch, 1957 campaign chairman, reported that several firms and individuals had not yet been contacted and members of the board accepted the responsibility of contacting those not solicited in the drive so a final report could be given at the next meeting of the board.

Present at the meeting in addition to those previously named were: Norman Pitcairn, Aaron Haller, Harold Barrick, Grace Farley and Vernon Rodick.

City Is Seeking Bids On Establishment Of Off-Street Lots

The City of Sedalia is requesting bids for establishment of off-street parking lots at Fifth and Osage, where the Fifth Street Methodist Church now stands, and at Third and Osage, where the parking lot next to the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co. is now located.

The work to be done includes, clearing, grading, paving, constructing driveways, installing meter boxes and guard rails and marking the stalls.

The bids are to be in the city clerk's office by 5 p.m. Jan. 17 and will be opened by the special parking lot committee at 7:30 p.m. that same day in the City Council chamber at City Hall.

The work to be done at Fifth and Osage does not include the razing of the church itself. A contract for that job has already been awarded to the T&O Lime and Rock Co.

Correction

The hours of "Operation SWAP" were incorrectly reported in the Democrat Wednesday.

The correct hours are from 3:30 Sunday afternoon Jan. 19, to 8:00 p.m.; and from 9:05 p.m. until all of the merchandise is sold.

No Weather Change Seen Through Friday

KANSAS CITY (AP)—No radical change in Missouri's weather pattern is in sight.

After a warm-up today in the south and extreme east, it is expected to be a little cooler over most of the state Friday. The lows tonight will be generally in the 30s with Friday's highs in the upper 40s northwest to the upper 50s southeast.

Some of the state's lows this morning included West Plains 14, Columbia 17 and Farmington 18.

Progress Of Neosho Awarded

City Gets Banner After Competition Across the Nation

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP)—Neosho's new blue and white banner—"All-America City 1957"—goes up today in the courthouse square.

The award was announced yesterday in New York after a national competition sponsored by the National Municipal League and Look magazine.

Neosho was cited for the way its citizens worked together to meet a series of community problems, a surge of civic betterment touched off by its already famous flower box stunt.

Mayor Joe Coker had received the award banner when the announcement was made in New York.

There will be a formal presentation ceremony at the high school auditorium Jan. 26.

Springfield was a winner last year. Other Missouri cities and towns among the previous winners are De Soto, Mexico, St. Louis and Kansas City. The winners this year include Omaha, Yankston, S. D., Miami, Philadelphia, Vancouver, Middletown, O., Galesburg, Ill., and Ketchikan, Alaska.

Neosho found its civic consciousness with its flower box program several years ago. The competition was started as a means of sprucing up the town. Flowers soon were blooming around the courthouse, in countless yards, and from boxes on the fronts of downtown buildings.

It attracted national attention and Neosho took up the name "Flower Box City."

The results inspired Neosho to tackle other civic problems.

In recent months it has set up its first planning commission and employed professionals to draw up a master zoning ordinance, make land use studies and tackle the traffic and parking problems.

Directs Further Hearings

Subversive Activities Control Board Gets Notice Otherwise It Must Give Reds Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals today directed the government to conduct further proceedings in its seven-year effort to require the Communist party to register as a tool of Moscow.

The court said the Subversive Activities Control Board, if it is to rely upon the testimony of one Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, must make available to the Communist party certain reports she made to the FBI.

This apparently left the board with the alternative of eliminating Mrs. Markward's testimony and writing another report, or conducting further hearings.

The registration proceeding against the party was initiated in November 1950 after passage, over the veto of former President Truman, of the Subversive Activities Control Act.

This is the second time the case has reached the Court of Appeals.

It got all the way to the Supreme Court once, but the high court sent it back for further proceedings without reaching the question of constitutionality of the law. The Supreme Court told the board to either eliminate the testimony of three witnesses—Paul Crouch, Harvey Matusow and Manning Johnson—or to give party lawyers another chance to test their credibility.

The board eliminated the testimony of the three witnesses and got out a new report, again holding that the U.S. Communist party is substantially dominated and controlled by Moscow.

In view of the appellate court's action today, the case more than likely will reach the Supreme Court again.

Hospital Board Inspects Bids On Addition

This afternoon at the city hall council chamber starting at 1:30 p.m., the Sedalia Hospital Board, Fred M. Lange, president, met to open bids on the construction and equipping of an addition to the Bothwell Hospital under the $300,000 bond issue voted for that purpose.

In connection with the bond issue, under the Hill Burton act, the federal government matches funds to be appropriated for the improvement.

About a dozen general contractors from St. Louis, Kansas City, Springfield and Joplin were among the bidders and they were represented by architects, engineers and others for explanatory reference relative to bids submitted.

Some of the bids were for erection of the addition and others were broken down to electrical installation, plumbing and heating.

The session Thursday afternoon did not bring any award of contracts and members of the hospital board desiring time to study the bids fully delayed any immediate action. It was tentatively indicated that a session of the board would be called for Friday night to take whatever action is to be forthcoming.

On Retired Land

Cattle Group Has Campaign Against a Grazing Practice

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The American Cattlemen's Assn. has launched a campaign against the practice of grazing livestock on crop land taken out of production under the soil bank program.

Use of retired crop land for grazing has been permitted under the government's farm aid program as a drought relief measure.

The 2,000 delegates at the association's 61st annual convention adopted a resolution urging all drought emergency clauses be stricken from the soil bank law.

The resolution blamed the grazing of soil bank land for increasing the surpluses of beef which have confronted the industry in the past critical year.

The cattlemen adopted 40 resolutions at the final session of their meeting yesterday, voted to go to Omaha for their 1959 convention and elected G. R. Milburn of Grassrange, Mont., their new president. He succeeded Don C. Collins of Kit Carson, Colo.

One resolution criticized "certain agencies of the federal government that are attempting to acquire private land through the assumed right of condemnation."

In a related vote, the convention went on record against the proposed expansion of the Army's artillery and missile firing range at Ft. Sill, Okla. It suggested that long-range missile firing be done elsewhere.

Convention delegates also resolved to push for federal legislation to permit a voluntary check-off system at livestock markets to raise money for promoting the use of beef. They urged the Department of Agriculture to develop a beef grading system further dividing the present grades and expressed opposition to pending legislation that would make federal grading of beef mandatory.

The cattlemen agreed to ask Congress to revise import duty rates and import quotas to "protect the industry."

Already she had been burned, but was not taken to the Medical Center until about 4 o'clock. She suffered painful skin burns on the face and on top of the head and on one hand, but was not believed to be critically hurt.

The Knob Noster and Whiteman AFB fire departments were summoned, but both arrived too late to head off the blaze.

However, they kept the fire from spreading to a house trailer about ten feet from the house. The trailer is the home of A/C and Mrs. Joe Kinsey, Whiteman AFB, son-in-law and daughter of the Ely's.

The only damage to the trailer was blistering paint on the side near the blaze.

The fire was believed to have been caused by defective wiring in the kitchen ceiling.

The flames, believed to have started in a defective outside chimney, were discovered about 9 a.m. The Knob Noster fire department responded and the blaze was brought under control before the building was destroyed.

The home is about three miles northeast of the city. No one was living in the building at the time. Mr. and Mrs. Vick had been on vacation, and before moving back into the building, had decided to redecorate and live in a trailer beside the house until the work was completed.

All the furniture except a piano, buffet and bookcase were saved. Water caused additional damage to the newly-redecorated home. The Vick's carried no insurance.

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algerian Mining Research Bureau today said exploring teams have found deposits of diamonds, platinum, nickel and copper in the Sahara.

The bureau said the finds were made during a three-month search in the mountainous Hoggar region, 1,250 miles due south of Algiers.

Would Make Defense Shift

'Safety Through Strength' Is Theme in New Space Age

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today gave Congress an eight-point "safety through strength" program for dealing with the Russian space age threat. It included defense reorganization to unify control and end inter-service rivalries.

In an eagerly awaited State of the Union message, Eisenhower said America's military strength at present is great and is a powerful deterrent to war.

But he said the dangers the United States faces are real. He said that unless we act wisely and promptly "we could lose that capacity to defend ourselves" and deter any Soviet attack.

The President, in an address carried nationwide on television and radio, said too that the country could make no more tragic mistake "than to concentrate merely on military strength." That, he said, could lead us to an age of terror.

Of even greater danger than the military threat posed by Russia's space era advances, Eisenhower said, is a massive economic offensive already launched by the Soviet Union against the United States and the rest of the free world.

The Senate and House assembled in joint session in the House chamber to hear the President deliver his message personally.

There was almost a wartime solemnity in the general mood of Congress—shaken by the national concern over Russia's space and rocket feats.

And, in the same note of the critical world situation, Eisenhower made his eighth point a direct appeal to the people of the Soviet Union—over the heads of their Kremlin leaders—to join in a drive for enduring world peace and take part in a first step toward disarmament.

The seven other points of his program will require legislative action by Congress:

1. Defense Reorganization—Eisenhower, obviously with mounting inter-service rivalries in mind, said the nation's first need is to assure that military organization speeds, rather than hinders, the functioning of the military establishment.

2. Accelerated Defense Effort—Eisenhower called for a speedup all along the line, including protection and further dispersal of U.S. striking forces and more adequate warning facilities in case of attack.

3. Continuation and Stengthening of the Mutual Security Program of Foreign Aid—Eisenhower said that if the foundations of the free world structure were progressively allowed to crumble under the pressure of Communist imperialism the entire house of freedom would be in danger of collapse.

4. Foreign Trade—Eisenhower urged Congress to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act for five years.

Found Guilty Of Shooting Korean Girl

Gets Jail Term, Fine for Assault At a Bomb Dump

KUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Airman Edward L. Young of Philo, Ohio, was sentenced today to three months at hard labor and a fine of $90, for the fatal shooting of a Korean girl at a bomb dump he was guarding.

The 20-year-old airman was convicted of assault with a dangerous weapon. A more serious charge of involuntary manslaughter was dropped by the general court-martial.

Another airman on guard with Young at the time, Carroll D. Taylor of Cincinnati, Ohio, was convicted Dec. 11 of assault with a dangerous weapon and sentenced to nine months in prison. He was never charged with manslaughter.

Young and Taylor were guarding the bomb dump last September when three Korean girls entered and began cutting grass for fuel. Two of the girls said Young indicated they could enter the dump, but Young denied it.

He said the girls started running from him and he fired two shots into a grassy area "to scare them into stopping." Then, Young said, he aimed a shot at the middle of a girl's back but expected to hit her in the legs because his rifle sights had not been adjusted.

Harris Is Reelected To Farm, Home Board

Four directors were re-elected to the board of the Farm and Home Savings and Loan Association at the annual members' meeting today at the home office in Nevada, Mo.

They were: Henry R. Harris, president of the Third National Bank, Sedalia; L. F. Richardson, president of the Richardson Motor Co., Nevada; Audy M. Byram, first vice-president of Farm and Home, Nevada; and Lee Lockwood, prominent Waco, Tex., financier.

Richardson and Harris have been Farm and Home directors since 1933. Lockwood joined the board in 1955 and Byram in 1956.

Missing American Airman

HELD BY REDS?—Maj. Howard Curran of Pratt, Kan., poses in this picture supplied by his brother Charles Curran of Tacoma, Wash. Maj. Curran is reportedly held by Communist Albania. He was given up for missing on a flight from Chateau-Toux, France, to Naples Dec. 23. Radio Tirana says Albania jet fighters forced down a U. S. jet trainer which trespassed over Albania and gave the pilot's name as Howard Curran. The Air Force says it has received no official confirmation of the report. Maj. Curran is standing in front of a plane named "Kansas Tornado."

Miss Anna Farnsworth Exchanges Vows With Calvin L. Pendergrath

Miss Anna Fay Farnsworth, Jacksonville, Fla., daughter of Mrs. J. R. Ramey, 1709 South Prospect, recently exchanged marriage vows with Calvin Lee Pendergrath, Jacksonville, Fla., son of Mrs. Mary Pendergrath, Durham, N.C., at Main Street Baptist Church in Jacksonville. The Rev.

Mrs. Calvin Pendergrath

H. L. Combe performed the ceremony before an archway of calla lilies and gladioli. Bouquets of white mums and gladioli and candelabras were on either side.

Jack Powers, organist, played "I Love You Truly," "True Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." He accompanied Miss Nina Bratton, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin with Chantilly lace yoke and wing collar edged with seed pearls. The full skirt fell into a slight train at the back. A tiara of pearls and sequins held her fingertip veil which was edged in matching lace. She carried a white Bible adorned with an orchid and white carnations. The bride made her wedding dress.

Miss Lillian Hobs, Jacksonville, Fla., was the bride's attendant. She wore a dress of autumn taffeta and her bandeau was fashioned of velvet leaves. She carried bronze mums.

Little Zona Thomas, flower girl, wore a dress of white satin designed like the bride's.

The bride's mother wore a rose colored lace dress over satin with an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a black suit and her corsage was also an orchid.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the bride's apartment for 75 guests. White gladioli and mums decorated the rooms. The wedding cake and punch was served from the bride's table which was covered with a cut-work cloth.

Miss Nina Bratton was in charge of the guest book.

The couple took a trip to the Carolinas. For traveling, the bride chose a beige suit, brown accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride graduated from high school in Warrensburg and attended CMSC. She is a radio operator at Eastern Air Lines in Jacksonville. She formerly resided in Sedalia.

The bridegroom is also employed at Eastern Air Lines.

This is Buick's Jack-pot Year

NOW—more than ever—
When better automobiles are built
Buick will build them

THIS is Buick's jack-pot year for new ideas—and the jack-pot year for the nation's car buyers. For here are new styling changes that folks approve, and engineering changes that people want. Here, too, are prices that buyers find great. Take the B-58 Buick SPECIAL—Buick's bottom-priced Series. Today it's an even better buy than ever—because it's priced closer than ever to the well-known smaller cars—and even below some models of those same cars. Go eye it, drive it, price it—at your Buick dealer's now.

Better Family Living

by
OPAL O'BRIANT
Pettis County Home Agent

Dates Ahead

Saturday, Jan. 11 — 4-H Club officers training meeting, 9:30 a.m. to noon. REA Building, Highway 65 north of Sedalia.
Tuesday, Jan. 14, Farm and Home Planning Family night, Horace Mann Cafeteria, 7 p. m.
Thursday, Jan. 16 — Farm and Home Planning Group meeting, home of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Chappell.
Friday, Jan. 17 — Farm and Home Planning Group meeting, home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson.
Friday, Jan. 24, Extension Club Clothing leaders training meeting, Lesson "Personal Appearance."
Mrs. Magness Leaves County
Mrs. Louvina Magness, Home Agent in training, has been promoted to County Home Agent in Polk County with headquarters in Bolivar, Mo.

Mrs. Magness has worked in Pettis County as a trainee since Aug. 1, 1957. Prior to her appointment with the Extension Service Mrs. Magness was a teacher and homemaker.

We enjoyed knowing and working with her and wish for her success in her new location.
Buying and Wearing Clothes
A new 4-H project "Buying and Wearing of Clothes" is being tried in Pettis County this year. In order to get it started Mr. Fox and I will be the project leaders for a County wide project. We will have the first project meeting Saturday, Jan. 25, at 9:30 a.m. in the Extension office. Any 4-H Club boy or girl 15 years of age or over may enroll in this project. If interested, please contact us at once.

Extension Club Secretaries Reports

Following each monthly meeting of Extension Clubs a report card is due in the Extension office. Thirteen clubs do not have all of their report cards in for the months of October, November and December. Each secretary should check when sending in the January report to see if she is up to date on all the months mentioned. These cards give us valuable information.

Show Off Show
As has been mentioned before the Extension Club members who are refinishing furniture and redoing pictures will have a chance to exhibit their work at the "Show Off Show" May 2. The Extension Club members voted favorable to having this event to replace the usual Achievement Day which is usually held in October. The chair caning and chair seat weaving also may be exhibited along with the pictures and furniture.

Sewing Center
The Penn State University made a study of homemakers sewing habits and found the following measurements lessened strain and prevented fatigue for most women.

Sewing machine table-height: 28 inches; apron, 4 inches or less, to allow for leg room. The needle should be seven inches from front edge and centered so you can sit directly in front of it, you won't have to twist sideways to see. Knee control should be eight inches from needle center. To handle material easily, you need 18 to 24 inches to left of needle, 12 inches in back (16 if table is against wall).

Posture chair — preferably on wheels; seat should be adjusted to 16 inches from floor.

Side table — space where you can pin or baste, place cut pieces, should be 18x36 inches, 24 inches high.

Ironing board — adjustable to a 24 inch height and designed so you can sit at it to press.

Cutting table — should be 28 to 36 inches wide, 56 to 72 inches long, 36 inches high, or use a plywood board on top of ironing board adjusted to height of 36 inches.

Mirror — 18 inches wide, 60 inches long, hung so top is 72 inches from floor. Space in front should be cleared to a 4-foot width; you should be able to stand 8 to 10 feet from glass.

Storage you can reach, without getting up from machine — for thread, scissors, tape measure, pins, zippers, items being made; about three cubic feet.

Storage nearby — for items you use less frequently, attachments, iron, pressing cloth, ironing board, fabrics, extra patterns; about 12 cubic feet.

Lights — in addition to machine light, overall room lighting and lamp in back and slightly to left of needle.

U-shaped arrangement — of the sewing machine, extra side table, ironing board was the one women liked best. You can reach everything without having to get up. For this you'll need floor space 76 inches wide, 64 inches deep. Since cutting-out is done before sewing, cutting table needn't fit in this U.

Achievement Awards Given to CAP Cadets

The Sedalia Composite Squadron Civil Air Patrol held its first meeting of the new year at the Sedalia Memorial Airport on Jan. 2. Capt. James Hamilton, newly appointed executive officer, was in charge of the meeting.

The cadets of the local squadron held their Christmas party in the recreation room at the home of Peggie Homan. A gift exchange and dancing were the highlights of the evening.

A large number of senior members enjoyed dinner and dancing at the Old Missouri Homestead as their Christmas social. Due to illness, Col. Bill Padgett was unable to attend.

Easterling Family Moves to Sedalia

R. J. Easterling, Electrolux representative of Kansas City, has moved with his family to Sedalia and reside at 519 South Barrett. He will represent his company in the Sedalia area.

On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Easterling will attend the national Electrolux meeting and banquet at Hotel Muehlebach. Over 300 representatives and their wives are expected for this meeting.

Check Dubious Salesmen, Says Business Director

"Before you sign on the dotted line, call the Chamber of Commerce," warns Jess Brown, director of the business relations division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Brown was referring particularly, at this time, to magazine salesmen, and points out that there are a number of magazine sales organizations not members of the Central Registry because of questionable practices. The Chamber has a list and can check quickly, thus saving people of the community money.

The public is asked to not be taken in by high pressure magazine salesmen, those who use the sympathy angle or who say they are working their way through college or those who become abusive. Note the salesman's name and report to the Chamber of Commerce, if you do not recognize the name of the company or if he doesn't have Central Registry identification, Brown advises. There are many fraudulent magazines operating in the United States, and the Chamber of Commerce has the names of the non-existent companies whose primary interest is not magazines but fleecing the public.

The Central Registry program is a project designed to promote ethical sales methods by magazine subscription solicitors who travel from city to city soliciting subscription on a door-to-door basis.

The program includes in its cooperative setup over 40 magazine publishers, some 37 magazine agencies who belong to Central Registry itself, which is a division of the Magazine Publishers Association, Inc., at 232 Madison Avenue, New York, 16, New York.

Participating for the community are some 100 Better Business Bureaus, including the National Better Business Bureau, throughout the United States, as well as over 650 Chambers of Commerce. Briefly, this is what the plan embodies:

(a) Magazine agencies join Central Registry and, as an integral part of such membership, they pledge adherence to a code which specifically bans a number of questionable sales practices.

(b) These CR-member agencies also post a cash bond guaranteeing that any order taken on one of their official receipts will be properly processed.

(c) Whenever a magazine crew representing such an agency visits a city where there is a participating BBB or Chamber of Commerce, the crew registers at the Bureau or Chamber on official registration forms supplied by their agency prior to starting work.

(d) When the crew has finished its stay in the city in question, one copy of the quadruplicate form is sent (by the Chamber of Commerce) to the agency concerned and two copies are sent to NBBB for the use of the Bureau as well as for the use of Central Registry. These forms are checked "No Complaint" if such is the case or, in the event of any consumer dissatisfaction or grievance, full particulars are supplied on the form itself.

(e) Reports involving serious complaint are not only considered by the agency concerned but are also referred to the Central Registry Board composed of 12 members, which group may — at its discretion — assess liquidated damages in amounts as high as $2,000 against agency.

(f) Every firm, as well as every Bureau and Chamber cooperating in the program receives monthly reports giving statistics, latest developments, etc.

The Central Registry - Better Business Bureau - Chamber of Commerce Cooperative Program (the CR Plan) has achieved continuing success as is evidenced by the current monthly average of well over 93 per cent good reports, meaning there were no serious breaches of good selling practices.

Glenn Lewis is general chairman of the business relations division of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce with Jay Lazerson as co-chairman.

Sedalia Lions Hear Younger At Meeting

"Archery History" was the subject of Dick Younger, who spoke at the Sedalia Lions Club at its noon day meeting at Bothwell Hotel Wednesday. Younger along with Leroy Young, state president of the Missouri Bow Hunters, also gave demonstrations on how to handle the bow and arrow.

Younger pointed out the bow and arrow is a primitive weapon and used as the sole means of survival a thousand years before Christ. It explained the art of using of the bow and arrow died down in the passing years, but was reviewed as a sport and art about 25 years ago.

"Archery today," Younger said, "is becoming one of the big national sports. It is almost as popular as golf and in time will probably be attracting as many if not more in the sport than golf."

Younger and Young used their bows and arrows in demonstrations throughout the talk and discussions.

Dr. David Robinson, program chairman, introduced the two archery experts.

George Young chairman of the coming minstrel show to be presented by the Lions gave a report on the progress and plans for the show.

Kenneth Buchholz, co-chairman of the annual Lions basketball tournament reported on the various committees and announced four teams have already entered the tournament, Houstonia, Tipton, Warsaw and the Broadway Bowling Lanes.

A. B. Warren, president, gave a final report on the fruit cake sales.

A report was also given by Harry Goldberg on Ladies Night to be held on Saturday, Jan. 18. He reported that although Ladies Night was set for Jan. 18, that it will be an extra date for the Lions to meet, the regular meeting on Wednesday noon, Jan. 15, will be at the hotel.

Guests at the meeting were Thiel H. Sweet and John G. Gehring, both of Atchison, Kan., guests of Jim Atkinson; Chuck Moore, Columbia, of Ralph Becker; and James Askren of Charles Gentges.

New Store Hours Set By Retail Merchants

The new store closing hours change on Saturday from 5:30 to 5 o'clock went into effect the first of the year as a result of the decision made by the Sedalia retail merchants at a meeting held last year, according to William T. Solon, director of the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce. Solon stated that there would be committee meetings this month with the meeting of all retail merchants to be held in February at which time policies, holidays and other things will be discussed and decided upon by the group.

Gibbons Says Spy Report Is All Wrong

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Harold J. Gibbons has denied reports that one of his supporters in a bitter Teamsters Union factional fight in St. Louis once spied against him for management interests.

Fred W. Bender, an industrial relations consultant, said he paid $5,387 to Harry Karsh, a Teamsters business agent, for tips on evidence for a 1954 federal grand jury investigation of the Teamsters and Gibbons.

Bender said he was surprised that Karsh is supporting Gibbons now because "when I was paying him he frequently told me he hated Gibbons."

Gibbons declared in Chicago last night it was absolutely untrue Karsh gave out any derogatory information about Gibbons or the Teamsters.

"I've known for a long time the facts about Harry Karsh's business relationships with that guy Bender in St. Louis," Gibbons said.

Gibbons challenged Bender "or anyone else to show me any proof that Karsh spied on me or did anything unfair to the labor movement."

A vice president of the international union, Gibbons faces opposition from a rival slate in an election next week of officers of the 41,000-member St. Louis Joint Teamsters Council 13.

Karsh, a business agent of Teamsters Carnival Workers Union Local 447, was reported in Florida rounding up delegates to vote in next week's election.

His attorney, Ted Bollinger, said that when he was employed by Karsh to represent him in 1954, "I was told by the government's chief prosecutor — Max Goldschtein — that my client was a possible defendant."

"If he had been giving valuable information to the government, I don't think they would have treated him like that. It seems highly unlikely that he was a spy," Bender said he passed on information he like that. It seems highly unlikely that he was a paid spy."

Swift Halts Killing Operations in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Swift & Co., meat packers has decided to halt its Chicago operations for slaughtering and processing calves, lambs and sheep.

The company discontinued its pork operations in Chicago last April.

As a result, cattle will be the company's only remaining slaughtering operations in Chicago.

Walter F. Schuette, Chicago plant manager, confirmed the reported move today saying:

"This change has been necessitated by the drastic reduction in the supply of calves and lambs (including sheep) available for processing in our Chicago plant. "Because of these reduced supplies, it is no longer economically sound to continue operations of Chicago—small—stock facilities which were built to handle a much larger volume."

He said Swift will continue to purchase calves and lambs on the Chicago market for processing at Swift plants elsewhere.

Canada Indians Ask Return of City Hall

BRANTFORD, Ont. (AP)—The Six Nations Indians are threatening to take back City Hall.

Aroused by reports that the Brantford City Council intends to put the hall and surrounding Market Square on the block, the hereditary chiefs of the nearby Six Nations reservation yesterday told their lawyer to begin a study of land titles and the treaty under which they granted the square to Brantford in 1851.

The chiefs say their ancestors gave the land on the understanding that it would be used only as a market square. If it stops being used for that, they contend, it must revert to them.

One source said, however, that though the Indians have always believed a written treaty granting the land exists, it has never been found.

City officials claim no bar to the sale exists as long as the city's taxpayers vote for it.

A new city hall is planned.

AF May Test Atlas At Canaveral Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Weather permitting, the Air Force probably will attempt a test launching of its 5,000-mile-range Atlas ballistic missile tomorrow.

Forecasters were warmer temperatures — welcome news to launching — crews struggling against near-freezing weather—and for diminishing winds.

The gales whistling across the cape's sand flats at up to 30 m.p.h. forced cancellation of a launching attempt yesterday.

The Air Force conducted its first wholly successful launching of an Atlas Dec. 17.

The weapon climbed about 80 miles, then streaked 600 miles across the missile test range in the Atlantic and hit what the Defense Department called a pre-selected target area.

The Atlas is designed to deliver a nuclear warhead from one continent to another at more than 10,000 miles an hour. First tests probably will be programmed for considerably less than inter-continental range, however.

Pens Message on Log; Italians Investigate

ROME (AP)—An Italian government expert was on his way today to Comegians, in the Alps, to examine a log from Russia carrying a penciled note in Italian.

The note read: "For 15 years I have been in Siberia. I am an Alpine soldier from the Carnia region."

It was scrawled in blue pencil on a polished portion of a fir tree trunk included in a Russian shipment of timber to a sawmill at Comegians.

Italians long have claimed that Russia still holds some Italian prisoners of war. The Soviet Union says it is holding only those who committed crimes while under detention.

Sawmill workers said the signature on the log message appeared to be Giuseppe Pustetto but that sap had obscured the last name.

Police Reports

A street stop sign at Broadway and Emmett was pulled up and laid on the ground. It was reported to the police at 11 p. m. Wednesday.

R. T. Shepherd, 118 West Second, reported to the police his brown camel hair overcoat and brown knit muffler were stolen from 118 West Second Wednesday afternoon. Later it was learned some pranksters had hidden the coat for a joke.

Mrs. George Wheatley, 318 South Engineer, reported to the police their garage was broken into sometime Wednesday night. Nothing appeared to be missing. A latch on the door had been pried off.

Police received a report of a man who gave his name as Ed Murphy soliciting advertising of some type from local merchants and getting checks in payment made out to another person.

Merchants are warned this man has no city license or local identification permitting him to make this solicitation.

Police Court

Ernest F. Cook, 311 East 11th, charged with parking in a restricted zone in the 500 block on South Engineer, forfeited a $2 cash bond.

Four overtime parkers who failed to appear in police court forfeited their cash bonds of $1 each and 14 others paid the 25-cent fee.

A-3c Chester Leon Golden, of Whiteman AFB, charged with careless driving at Tenth and Limit, failed to appear in police court and his cash bond of $25 was ordered forfeited.

Circuit Court

Donald D. Trout filed petition for divorce Wednesday against Guinever Richard Trout. H. C. Salvester is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Peace Hope May Rest In Outer Space Ships

OTTAWA, Can. (AP)—Nobel Peace Prize winner Lester B. Pearson says the best hope of world peace might be the discovery that another planet is inhabited and its space ships circling the globe.

"Then all of us on both sides of the Iron Curtain would get together and say, 'They can't do this to us,'" the former Canadian foreign secretary said last night. "But I hope we can do it on a better basis," he said.

US Gamblers Try to Lease Hilton Casino

NEW YORK (AP)—Hilton Hotels International says a number of gambling figures — including a man sought for questioning here in the Albert Anastasia murder case — have attempted to lease the gambling casino of the 24-million-dollar Habana Hilton now under construction in Havana.

John W. Houser, executive vice president of the hotel group, said at a news conference yesterday: "We have made every effort to insure the casino would be leased to persons of integrity, high character and good standing."

Houser called the news conference as more reports came from Havana that American gamblers and racketeers have obtained control of a large segment of the multimillion-dollar legal gambling industry in the Cuban capital.

Houser said 13 groups have sought to lease the casino, scheduled to open in the spring, and all but one have been turned down because they either had underworld connections or had refused to subject themselves to "rigid investigation."

One of the applicants rejected, Houser said, was Joseph Silesi, 61, of Manhattan.

Two Mothers See Imprisoned Sons In Chinese Jail

HONG KONG (AP)—An American mother was reunited today in Shanghai with her son imprisoned for life by the Chinese Communists on espionage charges. She had not seen him in 11 years.

"I feel wonderful," said Mrs. Ruth Redmond of Yonkers, N.Y., in a telephone conversation with Hong Kong. "Hugh is looking very good."

Hugh, a 38-year-old former businessman in Shanghai, has been held by the Reds since 1951.

Another mother, Mrs. Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn., also saw her son, John, in a prison at Peiping. Reuters news agency reported. She found him "very fit and in good spirits," Reuters said.

Mrs. Downey and a younger son, William, visited the prisoner for two hours. He has been imprisoned since 1952 on a life sentence on espionage charges.

Mrs. Downey and William arrived in Peiping with Mrs. Jessie Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., who is to see her son Richard. He is serving a 20-year sentence, also on espionage charges.

Authorities at the gray-walled prison told Mrs. Downey she and Mrs. Fecteau would be allowed to see their sons three times a week until their Chinese visas expire Jan. 19.

Anna Burns Released On Bail Wednesday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Barbara Ann Burns, who told police that "I'm really hooked" as a heroin addict, is free on $500 bail pending a court appearance Jan. 14.

The 19-year-old daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns was released on a writ late yesterday, having been booked on suspicion of violating the narcotics law.

She and John de Roo, 30, and Robert A. Gray, 23, similarly booked, were arrested early yesterday in her Hollywood apartment.

Miss Burns told officers and reporters that after her father died in February 1956 she and her mother, Mrs. Harriett Burns, became estranged, were engaged in estate litigation and she became lonely and turned to dope.

Ike

5. Scientific Cooperation with Allies—Eisenhower called for approval of legislation to permit the sharing of atomic secrets with friendly nations.

6. Education and Research—He noted he had outlined previously a broad program calling for spending about a billion dollars annually for four years to strengthen educational and research facilities.

7. Spending and Saving — The federal budget for the year starting July 1 will include about four billion dollars more than the budget for the year which began July 1, 1957, for defense purposes.

Eisenhower said the extra money will go for such things as missiles, nuclear ships, atomic energy, and research and development.

8. Works of Peace — "My last call for action is not primarily addressed to the Congress and people of the United States. Rather, it is a message from the people of the United States to all other peoples, especially those of the Soviet Union," he said.

Freeze Strikes Again At Florida's Crops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter cold stung the East Coast today on the heels of one of the region's worst snowstorms in years. The freeze struck a fresh blow at previously damaged Florida crops.

The mercury slid below zero in parts of snow-covered New England and western Pennsylvania.

Early morning temperatures sank into the dangerous 20s in the crop-growing areas of the northern half of Florida. The plunging temperatures came after snow fell over much of the state, including the citrus-producing areas.

Nearly half Florida's potential orange crop was wiped out by a freeze in December.

A hard freeze also was forecast for most of the Gulf states.

US Moves to Take the Sting Out of Russian Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is moving quietly to take some of the sting out of the anti-American propaganda unleashed by Russia at the Asian-African conference in Cairo.

This country may have gotten its biggest boost from an event not related to the Cairo conference—a U.S. mercy mission and emergency aid to flood-stricken Ceylon.

U.S. officials are anxious that the help to Ceylon be considered no more than what that country's grateful Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike called it: a "generous gift."

But it showed the peoples of Asia and Africa that the United States acted while the Soviet Union did no more than hold out promises.

The Asian-African "solidarity conference" which ended at Cairo Wednesday was reported by the U.S. Information Agency's Voice of America radio network.

Voice officials said they made no attempt to play it up or down, or to try to counter the obvious Soviet propaganda. Even the conference's Soviet-inspired actions were reported, including condemnation of President Eisenhower's Middle East plan, the North Atlantic Treaty and the Baghdad Pact.

The Voice, however, added commentary from officials and newspapers in various African and Asian countries, particularly those which boycotted the affair. These latter included the Philippines, Pakistan, South Korea, Turkey, Viet Nam, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

The aid program for Ceylon, announced yesterday by the International Cooperation Administration, called for shipment of 10,000 tons of wheat flour. Total cost, including transportation, was figured at $1,900,000.

This follows the dispatch of the carier Princeton, with 20 rescue helicopters, plus five other ships of the 5th and 7th U.S. fleets to provide food and medical supplies to the flood refugees. Ceylon's rains and landslides have killed hundreds and caused an estimated 105 million dollars in damage.

Gavin Request Is Approved By Brucker

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin's request for retirement has been approved by Secretary of the Army Brucker after a final effort to keep the critic of defense policies in uniform.

"I have done my best to persuade him to stay," Brucker said in announcing that he had "reluctantly" approved Gavin's application to retire March 31 after completing 30 years of Army service.

Gavin, chief of Army research and development, earlier in the day had told the Senate Preparedness subcommittee his decision to retire was final. Brucker said he made one more try at getting Gavin to change his mind, even after the general had taken this position.

Spurning Pentagon offers of promotion to full general within 14 months and a choice of two assignments until then, Gavin told senators, "I can do better for the Army outside than in."

"He spoke of the Army's position as deteriorating rapidly. He complained that Army strength and budget allocations have been whittled down over the past four years while Russian strength has been growing. He contends the Army needs thousands of planes, missiles and much more freedom in planning."

Talking with newsmen after his appearance before the Senate subcommittee, Gavin said "there is not one red penny" for the Army in President Eisenhower's emergency request for $1,260,000,000 in additional defense funds for this fiscal year ending June 30.

The general added that "I have been begging for money—money for the antimissile; money for a space program."

A number of Congress members have expressed concern over Gavin's plan to retire, saying officers of his caliber are needed badly now.

Gavin gave no clear idea of what he hoped to accomplish for the Army when he becomes a civilian, or how he plans to go about it. He told newsmen he had no particular plans for the future.

There were no outward evidences of any bad feeling between Gavin and Brucker, his present boss.

Maj. Gen. Harry Storke, chief of Army information, said Gavin's letter of resignation gave no reason for retirement beyond noting that Gavin, 50, will have completed 30 years of service March 31.

In The Lighter Vein....

"Haste manages all things badly," is certainly a truism.

Enroute hurriedly to a party with friends across town as guests of a son-in-law we locked all doors to our home and snapped the night latch on the front door. Too late we remembered the car key and house key in the same case had been left within on the TV set. This necessitated going two doors away and phoning our host to come with a key previously supplied him when we were on vacation last year. This delayed him in receiving his other guests. Fortunately rescue was effected with nothing worse for us than personal chagrin because of such absent-mindedness. This was much better than the last time it occurred when we had to break down a cellar door to get in the house and swore such an incident would never occur again.

On a bitter cold night to be locked out of house and automobile is distressing. But our chagrin is shared somewhat by an experience involving none other than our friend Mayor Julian Bagby, one of the directors of the Third National Bank. He and E. P. Miller, assistant cashier had been at work in the bank Sunday afternoon. Upon leaving, Miller departed by the rear door on East Third. Bagby went out the side door into the office annex lobby where the front door opens on Ohio avenue. The side door closed and locked. Then the mayor discovered the front door to the upstairs offices was also locked. There was no escape so he started rapping on the window to attract passersby of which there were few until along came H. C. "Jack" Rogers who works at the Crown Drug store. He had just delivered some mail to a box across the street.

"Imagine my surprise to find our mayor incarcerated behind locked doors," said Rogers. "For several years since moving to Sedalia I had been wanting to meet our mayor. Just recently I had told my wife someday this would happen and Mayor Bagby would perhaps make the first overtures. Sure enough he did, by tapping at me on a glass door on a Sunday afternoon. I never expected it to happen this way."

Rogers called Miller at home and the latter came down and let the mayor out.

Just another incident in the placid life of Sedalia on a Sunday afternoon at Third and Ohio, and a further demonstration that "haste to depart, the same as haste to meet your friends, manages things badly."

Another Shakeup For Ike Missile Czar

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — Another important purge is due in the Eisenhower guided missile department. This time it's missile czar William Holaday who is getting out.

To replace him, the administration is trying to entice Carter Burgess, former assistant secretary of defense and former president of Trans World Airlines. Burgess had a good record in both the Defense Department and TWA, but finally crossed wires with TWA owner Howard Hughes.

Holaday's exit will climax a steady stream of missile experts who have either resigned or been fired or otherwise come a cropper in the Eisenhower administration. The others are:

1. Trevor Gardner, missile executive for the Air Force who resigned in protest against the administration's slow missile progress.
2. Col. John Nickerson, who protested against alleged favoritism to General Motors by Secretary of Defense Wilson and was court-martialed.

3. Edgar V. Murphree, special assistant for missiles, who also exited. Murphree had been in charge of Esso Standard Oil's gasoline experiments with the Nazi cartel, I. G. Farben, before Pearl Harbor.

4. Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, top Army missile expert who has just resigned in protest over missile matters.

Note—Dr. James Killian of Massachusetts Institute of Technology was appointed by Eisenhower supposedly with full power to direct and correlate the missile program. A few days later it became known that missile czar Holaday disputed this.

Frankie Costello and Taxes

A new police-state method of using income taxes to pry into the lives of prospective jury members has New York attorneys up in arms.

Income taxes are supposed to be sacred and private. It is a penitentiary offense for any tax official to leak information regarding tax returns. Up until the time of Senator McCarthy's investigations this also applied to other government agencies.

However, when Frank Costello, onetime king of the gambling world, came up for trial for income-tax evasion in New York, his attorney, alert Edward Bennett Williams, suspected that the government had been probing into the tax records of jurors. He asked some blunt questions, and U.S. District Judge Francis X. McGohey ruled that he could get the answers—despite strenuous objections by government attorneys.

Williams found that the Justice Department had asked the Treasury for the tax returns of 200 prospective federal jurors and examined them to see whether they were favorable to the government, whether they had high or low incomes, etc. On the basis of these returns, government attorneys classified prospective jurors and managed to select for the jury eight favorable to the government. The jury convicted Costello.

Costello is now appealing on three grounds: 1, that his wires were tapped for three years; 2, that the jury had its income taxes looked into by the government; 3, that a mail cover was placed on his mail for the purpose of interviewing anyone who wrote him a letter.

The New York Bar Association has now filed a brief supporting Costello in his appeal. New York lawyers point out that if a jury is under income-tax scrutiny it is likely to feel intimidated and vote with the government for a conviction.

Note—This writer was probably the first newspaperman to expose some of Frankie Costello's operations back in 1945. Since then Costello has been convicted on several counts. However, I

Strong-Arm Tactics

Having failed to win satisfaction in the United Nations for their demands upon Dutch-held New Guinea, the Indonesians now have turned to strong-arm tactics.

The expulsion of 50,000 Dutch nationals and the closing of all Dutch consulates in Indonesia may be followed by the expropriation of 1.3 billion dollars in Dutch economic holdings in the island nation.

These holdings, of course, mean a great deal to the shriveled Dutch empire. Indonesian leaders obviously think the economic pressure may work where appeals to the U.N. have not.

Undoubtedly it would be quite a luxury for the Dutch to adhere to principle in this matter. But it ought to be noted that principle is on their side.

On the Indonesian side there is neither law nor justice nor morality. There is only emotion. Aside from a rough geographic proximity, no real link exists between New Guinea (East New Guinea is Australian) and the Indonesian island chain.

The overwhelming bulk of West New Guinea's population of some 775,000 consists of native Papuans, a Negroid island group. Indonesians are Mongoloids with no racial ties to Papuans at all.

Of all the emergent Asiatic peoples who have come to independence since World War II, the Indonesians have done perhaps the poorest job of running their country. They surely are ill-qualified to rule a foreign island.

If the New Guinea Papuans ever need freedom from Dutch rule, it should be the United Nations, not Indonesia, which takes them under its care.

January White Sales

The January white sales are no longer white because the rainbow has entered the bedroom and bath to say nothing of the dining room and kitchen. It is true an occasional husband does not rest his weary head on a rose bedecked pillow and others see red if they have to go to bed in pink or lavender sheets. Men had better get used to the idea, however, because color has invaded their bedroom and it's here to stay.

Thought For Today

If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.—Daniel 3:17.

Thine is the seed time; God alone beholds the end of what is sown; Beyond our vision weak and dim, The harvest time is hid with Him. — John G. Whittier.

Generals' Revolt May Have Shocked Ike

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It's like a revolt of the generals—peaceful, but a revolt—against the judgment of their commander in chief, President Eisenhower. The very timing of it may have shocked or angered him.

The nation has waited weeks—since Russia showed it was ahead in missiles by launching the Sputniks—to see what Eisenhower intended to do about matching the Soviets or trying to get ahead of them.

Today—in his State of the Union message to Congress—was his first chance to lay out his plans formally and publicly. Before he could deliver the message, two top generals blasted his administration's planning.

The two cut loose yesterday. They were Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, the Army's chief of research and development, and Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff.

It's usual in Washington to see the heads of the three branches of the armed forces complain to Congress they need more money. But the Gavin-White complaints went beyond the usual.

In the first place, this is not the typical postwar year when this country had clear-cut military superiority. It's a critical year when the American future may depend on the plans made this year.

Second, both generals know Eisenhower has been under heavy criticism for the lag in American missile development and that he is expected to do the utmost in his plans to make up for lost time.

Third, they put his 1958 programs under suspicion before he had a chance to announce them. For instance, both attacked his budget—the money he wants to spend—although he won't reveal his budget to Congress until Monday.

So far as is known neither general volunteered his opinion. Both were called to testify before the Senate's Preparedness subcommittee which has been investigating American defenses since the Sputniks went up.

Gavin went so far beyond the usual military man's complaint about needing more money that he is retiring from the Army. One of the reasons he gives is that he could not defend the amount of money Eisenhower will ask for Army research.

The Army's position, Gavin told the senators, is deteriorating rapidly and "I can't do anything about it." He added that "I can do better outside the Army than in."

And he said that the Soviet Army is far superior now to the American. He said the Army needs missiles, thousands of airplanes, and equipment.

White, like Gavin, testified behind closed doors. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee, made public a summary of some of the two men's testimony. He told newsmen White said these things among others:

Eisenhower has not asked enough money—either in the upcoming budget or in special funds he has requested in addition to the budget—to step up the development of the intercontinental ballistic missile.

This country is still working on two ICBM's—the Atlas and the Titan—designed to cross an ocean and a continent in a 5,000-mile flight.

Your Child's Health

No One Cure For Glandular Fever; Bed Rest Is Advised

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

Misconceptions about various diseases are extremely common and Mrs. R. W. expresses several. She asks whether glandular fever is likely to be fatal, whether it can be caused by too many hormone shots and whether it can become cancerous.

To answer these questions, glandular fever—or infectious mononucleosis—is rarely fatal, is not caused by hormone shots and does not lead to cancer; nor, so far as is known, is it related to cancer.

This disease is extremely interesting in many respects. It is probably caused by a virus and is certainly more common in children and young adults than it is in the later years of life. However, a strange fact is that most experiments aimed at attempting to transmit the disease from one person to another, or to monkeys, have failed.

Consequently, the degree of contagiousness—that is, the danger of contracting it from a victim of the disease—is rather slight. It would, indeed, be helpful if we knew more about how it is acquired.

Infectious mononucleosis, or glandular fever, which are two names for the same disease, appears to be somewhat more common today than in the past. Possibly this is because the disease is often mild and frequently may have escaped diagnosis in the past.

The symptoms of infectious mononucleosis are variable. Vague pains and slight loss of appetite are common and moderate fever is usually present. Some victims complain only of lack of pep or headaches.

In severe cases nausea and vomiting may occur. The lymph glands in the neck, groin and under the arms are generally enlarged and it is for this reason that the disease is sometimes called glandular fever.

Any of these signs or symptoms can be found in association with other disorders so that the exact diagnosis depends on the results of special tests. One of these is to find an increased number of mononuclear cells in the blood. In addition, there are special tests of the blood which greatly aid in reaching a diagnosis.

Most of those who get this disease recover without much difficulty. Generally the disorder lasts for several weeks and frequently leaves the victim run down and weak for an even longer period.

What medical men always fear, however, is that a disease of this kind may get more severe as time goes on. In fact, there have been reports of occasional victims of infectious mononucleosis who developed serious complications.

No single drug or other treatment can be considered to have specific value. Rest in bed and the usual methods for mild infections are advisable.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Discouragement sometimes engulfs a human mind until its owner questions his purpose for being. "I wish I were dead," he says. "I'm no good. There is no purpose in my existence. No one would miss me if I were gone." The person who reaches this point of futility could well ask himself a few questions: "Why do I become thirsty and drink water?" "Why do I get hungry and eat?"

All of the answers are in the realm of natural processes and the relationships of an ordered universe. God created all trivial parts of the universe with purposes. There is a purpose for each individual person as well as for all other units of creation. When you stop to think of this great purpose you realize that each segment of the universe is to aid other portions of universe.

Each individual person must seek to fulfill his purpose by serving others. Much of our potential aid to others is clear in God's natural picture. Some of our purposes are revealed to us only through prayer. We must find our full purpose and fulfill it. No one should wish himself dead.

Europe's Desperate Anxiety

Inflexibility of American Diplomacy Has Not Worked

By JOSEPH A. DEAR

Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — There is so much solid common sense in the talks ex-Ambassador George Kennan recently gave to the British Broadcasting System that it seems almost unkind to note he offered only a slight alternative to present diplomatic policy.

Kennan, who for years held important positions with the State Department, is of course a highly competent diplomatic technician. He has faith in diplomatic technique. He is pretty much convinced atomic warfare would cripple civilization. It is natural that he should offer proposals that might give diplomacy more operating room.

Kennan's eye-catching suggestion, which he hedged and qualified, was that both American and Russian forces withdraw from Central Europe, thereby creating a vast neutral zone. This might bring an increased measure of freedom to the satellite nations and make possible the reunification of Germany.

He is apparently of the opinion that over-emphasis of military factors is strangling diplomacy. His suggestion would involve the sacrifice of military advantages by both East and West. But presumably this might reduce tension enough so that statesmen could maneuver. Kennan warns that such a deal would be very difficult to work out. He also warns that Russia might be unwilling to arrange any general European settlement until the trend in other parts of the world is clear. In Asia, particularly, the tide seems to be running in Russia's favor.

Yet in spite of these and other warnings, the European response to Kennan's talks was surprisingly enthusiastic. That in itself is significant. For it reflects Europe's desperate anxiety to find a path that clearly leads away from nuclear war. Too, it hints that Europe is becoming disillusioned with present policy. If that is so, we may be approaching the point where some of our partners will become rebellious and refuse to follow our lead.

The grand design of American diplomacy for years has been to negotiate Russian forces out of areas they occupy while our forces remain in adjacent areas. The German situation provides a neat illustration: We want the Russians out of East Germany; we want Germany reunified; and we want our forces to remain in reunified Germany.

We have held to this policy inflexibly though it hasn't worked. Kennan is right in saying it won't work, ever. Therefore, why not try something else. In fact, why would be complications, but in the end it either works or it doesn't. There wouldn't be much to lose. And there is virtue in trying.

Kennan has a final warning: "Our diplomacy can never be stronger than the impression we contrive to create on others, not just by virtue of what we do but rather—and even more importantly—by what we are. What greater error could there conceivably be than the belief that weapons, however terrible, could ever protect selfishness, timidity, shortsightedness, and lassitude from the penalty that awaits them. . . . What greater error than to suppose that such things as courage and confidence cannot assert themselves in world affairs without the hydrogen bomb. Russia confronts us not with just a foreign policy or a military policy but with an integrated philosophy of action, internal and external. We can respond effectively in no other way."

Teen-Age Boy's Qualities Reveal the Future Husband

Most women give at least a little thought to what kind of wives their daughters will be some day.

But too few mothers seem to think much about what kind of husbands their sons will be.

If there is a teenage boy in your family you can get a fairly good idea of what kind of husband he will be by checking the following list:

One. Have you taught him to telephone if his plans are changed or if he is going to get home much later than you were told he would, to keep you from worrying?

Two. Has he been trained to pick up after himself and to take pride in being able to fix things around the house?

Three. If he says he will do a thing, can you count on his doing it?

Four. Does he have a pleasant disposition?

Five. Does he praise a good meal?

Six. Is he quick to show appreciation for things that are done for him or given to him?

Seven. Does he ever tell you that you look nice or notice when you are wearing a new dress?

Eight. Has he been taught to do small, courteous things for you, such as holding doors, helping you with your coat, etc.?

Nine. Have you given him a few responsibilities which he can be counted on to look after?

Ten. Have you encouraged him to get summer jobs in order to earn some of the things he wants?

Eleven. Has he been taught to be patient with and protective toward the younger children in the family?

If you can answer "Yes" to most of those questions, you can be pretty sure that some girl is going to have a good husband.

Three New Dormitories

MU Hopes for Gain In Housing Students

By ROWLAND H. SMITH
The Columbia Daily Tribune
COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The University of Missouri has been lagging behind in a race to meet housing demands of its students, but hopes to take over a temporary lead within a year.

By that time three dormitory units under construction will have been completed, adding 1,500 beds and increasing housing capacity provided by the university for unmarried students to approximately 4,000.

That number, university officials believe, will "put the university over the housing hump" for the time being. But they realize, too, that if enrollment is to climb to 20,000 in 1970 as predicted, more units will be required.

Gone are the days when a prospective freshman would quietly move into Columbia during the summer months, look over private rooming house, and return home with assured living quarters for the school year.

The new generation apparently disdains such effort. Present day students are prone to write to several schools seeking admission, and enroll at the one that accepts them academically, and can provide housing.

University officials have felt that for several years it would have had 500 to 1,000 more students if housing was available. Dormitories here have been crowded above rated capacity, fraternities have undergone expansion programs that make contributing alumni wince, but the number of old-fashioned student "rooming houses" has been on the decline—partly because of the university expansion program. The old frame houses that surrounded the campus and would accept from 10 to 25 roomers have been purchased by the university to assure space for buildings.

With the opening of the present school year, the university installed 873 co-eds in the six dormitory buildings rated at 825 capacity. The five men's dormitories were assigned 1,301 students, instead of the 999 capacity.

Meanwhile, construction has been rushed on the new units. One dormitory building of a South Fifth Street unit is to be completed this month, and a second by February 1. But the cafeteria building in which approximately 500 residents will be fed will not be available until March 1.

The overcrowded students in the older dormitories have had room assignments in the new building since September. Now they must make a decision. Shall they move to their new rooms, and walk approximately a mile for meals, or remain crowded a little longer? The university will let them decide.

Another men's unit of four buildings to accommodate 500 students is under construction as an addition to the four-building south dormitory group, located behind the gymnasium and men's athletic fields. With it is being constructed a cafeteria building in which 1,500 men students will be fed. It is doubtful if these units will be available by the opening of the 1958 school year.

Most elaborate of the new housing units is a four-building cluster planned for co-eds. It will contain three nine-story dormitory units of modern construction, replete with balconies and with lounges on every other floor. A cafeteria building one story high will be nearby where the 1,000 dormitory residents may eat. The buildings are under construction off Kentucky Avenue at the location of the old golf course, occupied since the war by converted army barracks. They were the unsightly buildings football fans complained about on the way to football games at Memorial Stadium. Most of the barracks have been removed because of the dormitory construction.

Altogether the university has about $10,000,000 in dormitory buildings under construction. It took a bit of high financing, borrowing funds from federal sources; even recalling bonds on older campus dormitories and refinancing them; and tapping funds available through the state's $75,000,000 bond issue. The loans were obtained over a 40-year period and will be repaid from student rentals. This took some maneuvering, requiring new state laws to permit "revenue bond" financing and another to allow loans extending over 40 years instead of the previous 20-year limitation.

President Elmer Ellis has said that he believes the university should have enough housing to provide quarters for 40 per cent of the students. That is the percentage that would be available if present construction was completed. When the new program is completed, however, university enrollment may be well above the present 10,000 mark and the need for dormitory construction may become acute again.

Even more acute than dormitory needs for unmarried students is the problem of providing living quarters for those who are married—and the number continues to grow annually. Right now the university offers housing in 168 permanent units and 132 in barracks-type buildings, and can't begin to meet demands. Plans are to double the number of permanent units, and the next federal loan will get that program started, possibly within months. The gain in numbers, however, will be problematical because construction will eliminate more of the temporary buildings, and others are getting into disrepair. After all they have been on the campus here for 12 years, and before that time did yeoman service at Ft. Leonard Wood and construction of that caliber wasn't designed to stand indefinitely.

In Second Round

Four Schools Assured of Berths In California Cage Semi-Finals

The Smithton Tigers, California Pintos, School of the Osage and Versailles Tigers gained berths in the semifinals of the 28th annual California Invitational high school basketball tournament Wednesday night as the second round of play was completed.

In tonight's quarterfinals in the consolation bracket, Russellville meets Iberia at 5:30; Jamestown battles Warrenton at 7 o'clock; Fayetteville Blue Springs at 8:30; and Eugene vies with Bunceton at 10 o'clock.

The host team California Pintos scored their 14th victory of the season against a single setback as they whipped Stover's highly regarded Bulldogs 74-61. The two teams battled to a 14-14 deadlock at the end of the first quarter. The Pintos' 29 point scoring spree in the second period was the winning margin. In the third quarter they were outscored 12-11, but added two more points to their lead in the final stanza, 20-18.

Donnie Flippin took the scoring honors for the Pintos with 25, followed by Louis Gabert with 20. Larry Uptegrove led the Bulldogs with 22 and R. C. Miles had 17.

Galen Pyle netted 22 points to lead his Versailles Tigers to victory over St. Elizabeth's Hornets, 66-62.

The nip and tuck battle saw the Tigers in front by three points at the half, 36-33. The Hornets erased that deficit and went ahead by one point in the third quarter 48-47. But the powerful Versailles squad was not to be denied victory and outscored the Hornets 19-14 in the final stanza for a 66-62 edge.

John Belcher and Don Eckoff backed up Pyle's 22 point effort with 14 each. Luetkemeyer was high for St. Elizabeth with 16.

The School of the Osage Indians wrote an end to Tipton's tournament play with a 51-37 decision over the cold shooting Cardinals.

Tipton put on a strong showing in the first two quarters by trailing at the half by only five points, 39-35. In the second half the Cardinals lost the range and the Indians outscored them in the third quarter, 11-8, and in the final period 10-4.

McGown topped the Indians, scoring with 15 points and Hartman led the Cardinals with 14.

The Smithton Tigers staged a 17 point rally in the fourth quarter to take a come-from-behind triumph over Linn in the opening game of the quarterfinals session, 56-54.

Coach Paul McKee's quintet trailed 34-25 at halftime and 46-39 after three quarters, but clutch shooting in the final stanza coupled with some nifty defensive

Butcher Leads Score In Small Colleges

KANSAS CITY—John Butcher of Pikeville (Ky.) College, a high-scoring player for a high-scoring team, has almost twice as many points as any other small college basketball player.

Butcher has scored 521 points in 17 games for a 30.6 average—third best among the leaders in statistics compiled by the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics.

Butcher's production has enabled Pikeville to average 94.1 a game.

By contrast, Panhandle (Okla.) A&M has permitted its opponents only 46.5 points a game to lead in that department. St. Benedict's (Kan.) has 47.6.

Larry Staverman of Villa Madonna (Ky.) leads in accuracy from the field with 65.2 per cent. Dave Wright, Westminster of Missouri ranks fourth with 61.8.

Kansans held the top spots in free throw accuracy. Bill Thomas of Bethany has hit 36 of 38 for 94.7 per cent; Bill Ehlers of Fort Hays State and Orris Reese of Taylor (Ind.) tied at 83.3 per cent. Jewell (Mo.) stands at 82.9.

Approves Record Time Of Two Sprinters

PHILADELPHIA—The National Collegiate Athletic Assn.'s track and field rules committee today approved the 100-yard dash time of .09.3 by both Bobby Morrow, of Abilene Christian College, and Dave Sime of Duke University. The time equals a world record in that event.

The performances were among 14 by college trackmen during 1935 which received approval at the NCAA's 32nd annual convention here.

Eight of the 14 equalled or surpassed world and American records. Two other efforts were approved as national collegiate records and a third, pending before the committee surpassed American standards.

The committee on ethics of the American Football Coaches Assn., announced today that it plans in the future to make public the names of coaches who violate its code.

The decision, which came during the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., convention here, reverses the long-standing policy of making known only the number of coaches censured. Violators may be punished by measures ranging from probation to expulsion from the association.

The committee reported it had taken disciplinary action against three coaches for violation of the code of ethics at the meeting just concluded. The committee's decisions have been reported to the individual coaches and the presidents of their respective institutions.

The committee, whose chairman is Coach Bill Murray of Duke University, also deplored "the situation wherein the college administration knowingly permits a coach to violate the NCAA and conference rules." Murray said the committee feels that in some instances college authorities permit such violations, while the coach gets the bad publicity when the violation is discovered.

The report said despite NCAA rulings, coaching from the sidelines has been more in evidence each year. The committee recommended, since the enforcement of the rules does not seem practical, that it be rescinded by the NCAA Rules Committee.

The committee reiterated its opposition to scouting of opponent's practice sessions, and also went on record opposing use of any stimulant which may be considered a medicant.

Also criticized in the report was the practice of contacting a student at another institution by a coach or his representative. The committee said that if a student makes the initial contact regarding a transfer, it should be considered an ethical practice to notify the coach of the school from which the student is transferring.

Mountaineers May Be Rated Top In Poll

By DON WEISS
The ASSOCIATED PRESS

More and more, it looks as if those hustling Mountaineers of West Virginia University have what could make them THE TEAM of the 1937-38 college basketball season.

The Mounties, who assumed the No. 1 rating in the AP poll after snapping North Carolina's 37-game winning streak three weeks ago, showed a gritty performance last night making it 11 straight, 76-75 over a fired-up Villanova outfit that held a 16-point lead with about 10 minutes to play.

The Mounties, fumbling and inept until then, went on a spectacular drive behind their spectacular 6-3 soph, Jerry West, a 37-point scorer for the night. With about 10 seconds left, West's field goal pulled West Virginia to within one point at 75-74 and, with but two seconds left, Lloyd Sharrar's driving layup bagged it.

West Virginia's victory came in the opener of a doubleheader at the Philadelphia Palestra. Twice-beaten Temple, Holiday Festival tournament champ and 12th-ranked nationally, won its eighth in a row 64-45 over Penn State in the second game.

Eleventh-ranked Maryland, a coasting 74-59 winner over Duke in an Atlantic Coast Conference game, was the only other rated team in action in the night's slim program.

Dayton, now 10-2 after a slow start, whipped Detroit 72-59. Louisville broke a three-game losing streak by cuffing St. Louis 67-55. Wichita took an 80-54 Missouri Conference test from North Texas State, and Dom Flora set a school career record of 2,006 points with 25 during Washington and Lee's 73-54 victory over Randolph-Macon.

Duquesne stopped Carnegie Tech 68-51 and Pitt defeated Westminster of Pennsylvania, 72-37 in a doubleheader at Pittsburgh.

Western Kentucky defeated Oklahoma City 70-56. St. Francis of Pennsylvania won 72-50 over St. Bonaventure. George Washington edged Georgetown (DC) 80-78. Bowling Green was a 104-74 winner over Western Michigan.

Wilson, a former Chicago Bears end, received 15 of the 36 votes cast to edge out Cleveland's Paul Brown by five votes.

No coach ever took over a football team under more difficult circumstances than Wilson. He was given the Lions' head post less than 24 hours after Parker dramatically walked out on the club just three days before the team's first exhibition game last August.

"This is the worst squad I've ever been associated with," Parker claimed. "I can't handle it any longer. This is a team that's dead. I'm getting out."

Wilson stepped into the job after eight seasons as an assistant coach in Detroit. He wasn't off to a blazing start, either. The Lions split their six exhibition games. Then the Lions lost the opener to Baltimore 34-14. The Lions won their next three, but appeared to drop out of the race when they were beaten by Los Angeles and the 49ers to make their record a modest 3-3 at the halfway mark.

In the stretch run, Detroit, with a series of amazing finishes, won five of six. That gave the Lions a tie with the 49ers for the Western Division title. In the playoff, the Lions put on a dramatic second half spurt to win 31-27. The mauling of the Browns followed.

Crosby's Golf Tournament Opens Today

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — Bing Crosby's friendly little golf tournament that grew up in a hurry opens its 72-hole stand today with a $50,000 jackpot.

Finishing an 18-hole practice round yesterday with former PGA and Masters champion Jack Burke Jr., the crooner declared the growth of his tournament continues to amaze him.

"When we first started in 1937 at Rancho Santa Fe, it was pretty small peanuts. Just a few pros and amateurs getting together to have some fun. It's grown to be one of the biggest in the country."

Crosby will be among the spectators. He's too busy with such things as televising 90 minutes of the final play Sunday to compete.

Most of the big-name golfers plus such celebrities as Bob Hope, Guy Madison, Randolph Scott and Dennis O'Keefe will take part. Three rugged courses on the picturesque Monterey Peninsula are played. The huge field of 280 is split into two groups—one plays at Monterey Peninsula Country Club and the other at Cypress Point today. Tomorrow they switch. The final two rounds are over Pebble Beach.

Last year's winner Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., turned in a 2-under-par 70 in practice yesterday at Pebble Beach. The lowest score was a 65 by Don Whit, Alameda, Calif., semifinalist in the PGA tournament last year. Whit was 7 under par on the Cypress Point course.

U. S. Open champion Dick Mayer, getting back into tournament golf after a layoff since the Ryder Cup matches in England Oct. 7, says he isn't in top shape. "My game needs a lot of polish," he declared.

Fill-In Named Year's Coach In AP Poll

By JOE REICHLER
The ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Wilson, the Detroit Lions' 11th hour fill-in when Buddy Parker quit last August, was voted 1935 Professional Coach of the Year by a panel of football writers in the annual Associated Press poll.

The 43-year-old Wilson earned the award when he directed the Lions to the National Football League championship with a 49-14 rout of the Cleveland Browns after a poor start which saw the Detroit team win only three of its first six games.

Wilson, a former Chicago Bears end, received 15 of the 36 votes cast to edge out Cleveland's Paul Brown by five votes.

In the stretch run, Detroit, with a series of amazing finishes, won five of six. That gave the Lions a tie with the 49ers for the Western Division title. In the playoff, the Lions put on a dramatic second half spurt to win 31-27. The mauling of the Browns followed.

Missouri Bow Hunters Ready For Rabbit Hunt on Weekend

Members of the Missouri Bow Hunters Association will hold their annual rabbit hunt near Sedalia on Saturday and Sunday, according to W. T. Watkins, president of the MBHA.

The archers will assemble at the junction of Highways 50 and 65 and depart for the hunting area at 8:15 o'clock each morning. Watkins warned that the bowmen should be on time or be left behind. The hunting area is about a 30-minute drive from Sedalia.

Last year near Windsor, about 75 archers bagged 246 cottontails in their two-day rabbit hunt.

RABBITS PLENTIFUL
With the coming of the new year, two major hunting seasons have closed. However, hunters need not hang up their guns yet. Rabbits are fair game through Feb. 28 and raccoon and opossum can be hunted through Jan. 15.

Quail hunting closed Dec. 31 with preliminary reports from the field indicating fairly good hunting for most birds. At the same time, the reports showed that it took a lot more work and good shooting to bag the limit. There were some hunters who said birds failed to hold and when they flushed, they flushed wildly. That was predicted by Jack Stanford, quail biologist for the Missouri Conservation Commission, who said heavy spring rains interfered with the normal nesting cycle of the quail.

Waterfowl season came to a close Jan. 2, with best hunting reported in the north and southeast parts of the state. During the entire 70-day season, the waterfowl population hovered around the 500,000 mark, with most of them in the north half of the state. Heavy rains and floods in the southeast during the middle of the season scattered the ducks, leaving few large concentrations in one area. Reports of hunting success generally followed the population counts—better in the north than in the south.

Besides raccoon and opossum, hunting of weasel, striped skunk, spotted skunk and badger is permitted until Jan. 15. They also can be trapped until that time, as can muskrat, mink, beaver and

K.C. BOAT SHOW
The 1936 Kansas City Boat, Sports and Travel Show is slated to open on Jan. 31 at Municipal Auditorium and a record number of exhibitors already have negotiated to display their wares.

Several new motors will be displayed for the first time in the marine exhibit that takes the entire exhibition hall and mezzanine. Nearly every major manufacturer of marine equipment will be represented during the ten day event.

A 17-act stage spectacle will be one of the show's features and will include log rolling champions, casting kings, animal acts, high wire performers and other acts with appeal for the outdoor family. Last year 150,000 attended the event.

IT'S A FACT
Coyotes have a variety of calls. They can, and sometimes do, bark much like a dog. . . . Bass feed almost constantly, but early morning and evening hours are usually considered the best times for angling.

Sweet Springs Wins In Close Cage Game

In a close basketball game at Mark Twain gymnasium Wednesday night, Sweet Springs trounced the Town and Country team 73-65, despite the fact that the Town and Country team was playing their first game in their new uniforms.

Sweet Springs grabbed a close lead in the first quarter of play, but the score kept passing back and forth until the third quarter, when Sweet Springs edged forward to a clear lead.

High scorer for the Town and Country squad was Ringin with 18 points, and the high man for the game was Allen of Sweet Springs with 28.

Western Auto Team

Ike Message Is Based On Two Big Aims

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower's State of the Union message today is supposed to alert Americans to the overseas threat to national security and to calm the nerves of those who fear for the health of the domestic economy.

Congressional leaders who have been briefed on both today's message and the federal budget still to come say that the administration program seems based on two aims:

1. Increased military spending to meet the Russians' advance in missiles without cutting back much if any on domestic spending.

2. A boost to the domestic economy by the increase in federal spending to a peacetime record of 74 billion dollars. It is hoped this will halt the recession by midyear and then hike collections from corporate and individual income taxes enough to bring the budget into balance by mid-1959.

Businessmen will watch closely the reaction both of the Congress and the public.

Although they feel that American consumer spending will be the decisive factor in the timing of the recession, many businessmen feel that the pump priming to the economy from the increased federal spending all along the line should help to cushion and perhaps reverse the downturn in industrial activity.

But, even more, it should bolster confidence among those tending of late to panic at the slowdown in factory output and the rise in unemployment.

After Sputnik startled the American public, the general belief was that spending on missiles would be advanced but that the administration would try to hold the general budget in balance by cutting back on domestic spending for programs of a welfare nature. The President at first indicated as much.

The betting, however, now is that there will be little if any cutting back by Congress. Today at least the late economy drive looks awfully dead.

Two Emergencies

Aircraft Land at Sedalia For a Variety of Reasons

BIG VISITOR—This DC-3, poised for take-off from the Sedalia Municipal Airport, was the biggest plane to land at the airport in December. It is also one of the biggest planes which can be accommodated here. The plane is owned by the Peabody Coal Co. of St. Louis, and the occupants stopped at Sedalia to visit the coal mines at Windsor. Pilot is Gen. Milkitch.

Landings at Sedalia Municipal Airport during December were made for a variety of reasons, including visits, business trips and a couple of emergency touch-downs.

Ten landings and take-offs were recorded. The biggest plane to land and take off was a DC-3, which came in Dec. 12 and left the same day. The twin-engine craft is owned and operated by the Peabody Coal Co. of St. Louis, and brought visitors to the coal mines at Windsor.

Roy C. Clusterson of Miami, Okla., was on a cross-country night flight Dec. 24 and got lost. He spotted the lights at the Sedalia airport and came in for a landing. He was piloting a 172 Cessna and had departed from Marshall earlier in the evening. He landed at Sedalia at 1 a.m.

Another emergency landing was made by Maj. Johnson of Omaha, Neb. Johnson had departed from Nashville, Tenn., and was on his way to Omaha when ice began to form on the wings of his Navion. He saw the Sedalia lights and landed. He was accompanied by his family. The landing was made Dec. 31.

Max Johnson, Kansas City, landed his 180 Cessna Dec. 3 to pay a visit to the National Engineering Co.

Logan Smith, Kansas City, landed a 172 Cessna Dec. 3 to visit with Ray Anderson, airport manager.

J. G. Long, Iowa City, Ia., landed a Stinson owned by Pete McMillin, Iowa City, on Dec. 6. He was on a cross-country study and landed to gas up and record his progress on the trip.

Sam Golden, Marshall, landed his Luscomb Dec. 7. He manages the airport at Marshall and was visiting the airport at Sedalia.

An Aero Commander, owned by Town and Country Stores, landed Dec. 10. The plane was piloted by Bill Jameson, and the occupants were visiting the Town and Country factory in Sedalia.

Bill Hog, piloting a 310 Cessna owned by the Fleming Co., Kansas City, Mo., landed Dec. 15. The occupants visited Bing's Market.

A Twin Beechcraft, owned by the Farm and Home Loan Co., Joplin, arrived Dec. 19. The plane was piloted by Joe Billings, and the occupants visited the local Farm and Home Loan office.

Retired Ship Officer Dies in Duck Blind

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—Fred L. Doelker, 68, a retired vice president of Grace Steamship Line, died in a duck blind yesterday.

Chesley M. Walter, his hunting companion, said they just had retrieved two ducks when Doelker collapsed.

Studies Realignment Of Judicial Circuits

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A nine-member joint committee from Missouri's House and Senate today began looking into the possibility of realigning some of the state's judicial circuits.

Scheduled to appear before the legislative judicial committee was one group favoring a second circuit for Clay County. Circuits in Jackson, Cass, Johnson, Saline, Ray and Carroll counties also were slated for review.

The fifth and sixth circuits will be considered at a hearing Friday in St. Joseph. Sen. William Waters of Liberty heads the joint committee.

McClellan Takes Over UAW Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) today took over active direction of his Senate Rackets Committee's field investigation of the United Auto Workers and the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin.The committee postponed until next month its public hearings into violence and other aspects of a continuing UAW strike against the Kohler firm, which makes plumbing fixtures.

Arrangements for McClellan to direct the staff inquiries were worked out at a stormy closed-door committee meeting yesterday in the wake of a simmering, undercover row between some of the group's Democratic and Republican members.

Novelist Hurst Dies After Christmas Fall

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Vida Hurst, who wrote 32 serialized novels for newspapers in 32 years, is dead at 67.

She succumbed yesterday in a hospital where she had been since breaking her hip Christmas Eve in a fall.

Born in Tarkio, Mo., she had lived in Santa Monica the last eight years. Her novels were distributed by the Register & Tribune Syndicate, Des Moines, Iowa.

She leaves a daughter, Mrs. Anne Allison, Santa Monica, and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Peterson, Red Oak, Iowa, and Mrs. D. J. Thomas, Phoenix, Ariz.

McClellan said the committee would make a fair and full-scale inquiry into allegations that both the union and the company have dealt in violence in the four-year-old strike. He said it also would cover boycott practices employed by the union, and any improper political activities by either side.

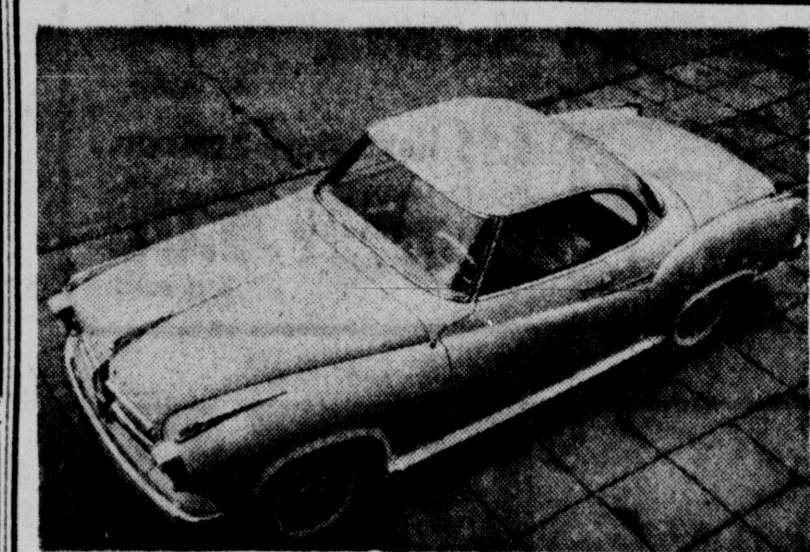

His action came on the heels of protests by UAW President Walter Reuther and Sen. McNamara (D-Mich.), a committee member, against the field investigation as handled by John McGovern, counsel to the committee's Republican members and head of the committee's Detroit field office.

Reuther had accused McGovern of making improper, irresponsible and prejudicial statements against the union. McNamara had demanded that the committee fire McGovern, but said he did not press that demand at the closed-door meeting and no such action was taken.

In Detroit, Reuther said the union will welcome a hearing before the committee and its representatives "will answer all questions completely without taking refuge in the Fifth Amendment."

Reuther contended, however, that the committee staff has "concentrated primarily on investigating the union," and expressed the hope that "a comparable effort will be made to investigate the company" before public hearings are held.

McClellan said the UAW-Kohler public hearings would be replaced this month by an investigation of alleged corruption in the Operating Engineers Union. He declined to give any details.

Old Church Razing Is Mark of Progress

The razing of the old Fifth Street Methodist Church to make room for an off-street parking lot at Fifth and Osage will take another historic landmark from Sedalia, but it will be a mark of progress for both the church and the city.

Actual work on the demolition project will begin in mid-January, according to information received from the T&O Lime and Rock Co., which has been awarded the contract to demolish the building and grade the lot.

Preliminary work, which will include the removal of all windows, doors, woodwork and salvageable material, will take about two weeks. After all usable material has been removed, a huge swinging hammer will be used to knock the walls down and fill up the basement to grading level. The company said there would be plenty of this material to make the fill.

Several old-timers, who saw the building grow into a church many years ago, are closely watching the operation. Circuit Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, who was present when the building was constructed, commented that a lot of old memories would be buried in the debris. But when the city gained a new parking lot, the church gained a new building.

The new church building is one of the most modern yet constructed in Sedalia. It is located at Broadway and Carr, and, after several successive name changes, is named Wesley Methodist Church. An historical sketch of the Methodist faith in the Sedalia area shows the M. E. Church, South, was organized in 1870 by the Rev. Preston Phillips. The first house of worship was located on the northeast corner of Massachusetts and Third Street. Part of this building is still standing at the original spot and houses the Heynen Monument Co.

Three years later, membership in the church had grown to 64, and the next few years saw membership grow to more than 200. The growth was so fast that the pastor at the time, the Rev. R. R. Faris, obtained funds and completed a new building at Fifth and Osage. This building was a brick structure and was dedicated in 1891. Due to structural defects, the building was condemned in ten years.

The present building was constructed in 1901. The Rev. Felix R. Hill was the pastor at the time of its construction. Many members of the congregation at the time have moved away from Sedalia, but they still remember the summer of 1901, when the cornerstone was laid. The Rev. Milton Lyon, now living at Parsons, Kans., was recently visiting the present pastor, the Rev. Walter D. Niles, when he read an account of the demolition in The Capital. He readily recalled that his mother had taken him and his brothers to the cornerstone-laying service.

The late T. W. Bast, father of Dr. T. W. Bast, 412 1/2 South Ohio, was the architect for the building. Dr. Bast was not certain his father had designed the building, but Judge Hoffman confirmed this fact.

When the building was completed and the congregation moved from its old building on Third Street, this necessitated a name change. It was changed from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South to the Fifth Street Methodist Church South. This name was used until 1939, when under the unification of the Methodist church-

Four Small Pumps Permit Record Speed

NEW YORK (AP) — Four hydraulic pumps each the size of a grapefruit helped an Air Force fighter-bomber to go 1,207 miles an hour the other day to smash a closed course speed record.

The small units can send as much as 120 horsepower of energy to the ends of the plane, supplying the power needed to move ailerons, wing flaps and other control surfaces against strong air resistance.

Farmers use such devices when plowing. Motorists use them for power steering, for hydraulic jacks and transmissions. Massive bulldozers toss boulders around and tear their tracks by hydraulic. A power shovel scoops up earth and stones, a hundred tons at a time, with hydraulic pressure. Your barber or dentist may lift or lower you in their chairs by the touch of a hydraulic device.

The record-cracking plane is McDonnell Aircraft's F101A Voodoo and the pumps are Denison Hydrolics made by the Kellogg Division of American Brake Shoe. The pumps give the plane's pilot the equivalent of muscles with a force of 3,000 pounds per square inch.

Oil is used in the tubes running from the cockpit to the wing controls since oil is almost incompressible, and a little pressure by the pump can deliver tremendous force. It can also deliver extreme degrees of delicacy in handling force. For example, a hydraulic multipress is controlled so precisely it can print color samples on paint advertising folders with little more than a bare brush stroke impact on the paper.

Among other makers of hydraulic systems are Worthington, Harrison, N.J.; Vickers, Detroit; Oil Gear, Milwaukee; and New York Air Brake, which services the auto industry.

ches, it became the Fifth Street Methodist Church.

In 1949 a building committee recommended a new building and the recommendation was approved by the congregation. A new name was chosen by the congregation. Funds were raised and the building was built during the pastorate of the Rev. Lee Soxman. The consecration service was held Aug. 12, 1956.

The recent move to the Broadway building brought about an additional name change. It is now known as the Wesley Methodist Church and Mrs. Helen Woolery, church secretary, said membership has grown to approximately 850.

Miserable January in East

The weather maps below give you the U. S. Weather Bureau's long-range forecast from now until the end of January. It is not a specific forecast in the usual sense, but an ESTIMATE of average temperatures and precipitation for the period.

Temperatures from now until February are expected to average below seasonal normals over most areas east of the Continental Divide, except for near to above normal over the Northeast and in the Southern Plains. This marks a wintry change from the mild conditions which prevailed over late December. West of the Divide temperatures are expected to average above normal, except near normal over the Southern Plateau.

Precipitation from now until February is expected to exceed normal from the Ohio and Lower Mississippi Valleys eastward to the Atlantic Seaboard, with increasing snows in the northern half as January progresses. Above normal precipitation is also anticipated over California. Subnormal amounts are indicated over the Southern Plains, western Great Lakes Region, and Upper Mississippi Valley. In other areas about normal is predicted.

A Heavy Heart

Giraffes have a 25-pound heart — 40 times heavier than a man's — says the National Geographical Society. It is needed to pump blood from its heart up his long neck to his head.

No More Sneaking In

From Used Records To His Own Factory

By Gene Handsaker
LOS ANGELES. (AP) — Ten years ago Carl Doshay was peddling used phonograph records from cardboard bins in supermarkets. Today he has a record factory he says will gross five million dollars in sales this year. "That's wholesale," adds the 38-year-old president of Tops Records. "Retail, eight million."

Once he had to sneak his cartons of juke-box castoffs into some markets to show managers that housewives would buy them at 9 to 29 cents each.

Now he hires stars like Ann Southern, Dan Dailey, Connie Haines, James Melton and Lena Horne to make long-play hi-fi albums. The discs sell in grocery, drug, department and dime stores for $1.49—less than half the cost of major labels whose racks have moved in beside them. Sales in both categories have been stimulated, Doshay says.

"We help each other. Somebody comes in to buy a King Cole Capitol and buys one of ours, too. And vice versa."

Doshay, who says he'll sell nearly 10 million records this year aims his discs at teen-agers and housewives who can't afford higher prices of better-known labels. His albums are sold in more than 7,000 supermarkets and drug and department stores.

But his success didn't happen overnight.

Ten years ago he sold his watch-repairing business in his native New York City for $10,000 to buy a turkey ranch in southern California. He had been stationed here in the Air Force and liked the climate.

His money became tied up in escrow proceedings delayed by the death of the ranch's former owner.

Doshay, living in a tiny apartment with his wife and two children, had to bring in some cash. Hitchhiking to a possible opening for a salesman, he asked a truck driver about the load of old phonograph records he was carrying.

The driver said he was hauling them to the city dump for juke-box operators who had replaced them with newer hits.

"Go ahead, take a few for yourself," the driver invited.

Doshay did. That night he played some on a borrowed record player.

"Certainly not new," he recalls musing, "but they could be worth a few cents. Why throw playable records away?"

Next morning he packed about 25 in an open cardboard box and wrote with crayon on the side: "Your favorite old records, 9 cents and up."

He took them to record stores. Managers turned him down flat, declaring such a sideline would ruin their business in new records.

Starting home, Doshay went to a supermarket to buy groceries. He set the box of records on a counter while he shopped.

Housewives flocked about the old records. He asked one woman to return the discs she had selected. "I will not!" she said. "Buy your own records!"

At that instant Doshay got his big idea: Sell records in supermarkets. He made a deal with the manager by simply bringing him over to the crowd of milling housewives.

A friend since boyhood, Sam Dickerman, a garment cutter, came here from New York to join Doshay in the new enterprise.

They needed money to buy more records from jukebox operators. Doshay's $10,000 was still in escrow. A bank official told him: "Get some additional security and I'll recommend an interim loan until your money clears."

Doshay decided to build the business until it would serve as the security.

He scurried from store to store and in six days opened enough accounts to satisfy the bank.

Eventually he had 400 used-record outlets in Los Angeles and nearly 1,500 in 11 Western states.

The markets got 40 per cent partner grossed over $50,000 that first year, 1947, and in time were buying records all over the country.

In 1950 they decided to make their own records of current hit songs, pricing them far below competitors and still selling them in markets.

Their first record, "My Happiness" and "Hair of Gold," was made with unknown musicians Doshay found in a night spot in Los Angeles' Negro district. He retailed it at 39 cents and:

"It sold everywhere we put it. We were reaching the mass teenage public that couldn't afford a 79-cent record."

The partners sold their used-record operation at a profit to another firm, Julian Brown Enterprises, Inc., moved from a small plant into a two-story, half-million-dollar factory—a former mattress works—south of downtown. Two hundred employees work two shifts stamping out, labeling, packaging and shipping 35, 45, and 78-r.p.m. records. There are offices in Chicago and New York.

AMERICAN HOLLANDAISE SAUCE accompanies cauliflower, or made into Bearnaise to embellish skillet steak. Requires no cooking.

This Sauce Needs No Cooking

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Sputnik or no, the American If it is the height of your ambition to serve Eggs Benedictine, Bearnaise to accompany steak, cooks. Especially by new cooks' paragon or broccoli with Hollandaise Sauce, then you can do so easily with this recipe via the blender. You can also add to this Hollandaise and achieve Sauce Bearnaise to accompany steak. Either way, this sauce — which requires no cooking — can compare favorably in texture and flavor with the French Hollandaise that is made over heat.

American Hollandaise Sauce

Ingredients: ¼ pound (½ cup) butter, 3 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ tsp. salt, cayenne.

Method: In a small saucepan (1 pint) melt the butter; heat until it bubbles and foams all over the top, but do not let it brown. Meanwhile, put the egg yolks, lemon juice, salt and a pinch of cayenne into the electric blender container; cover container; flick motor on and off (at high speed) twice. Remove cover. Turn motor on (at high speed) and in a slow stream pour in the hot foaming butter. Turn into small bowl to serve. Makes ¾ cup — enough for 4 servings.

SAUCE BEARNAISE

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, 1 teaspoon dried crushed tarragon, 2 tablespoons minced shallots, 2 tablespoons Hollandaise Sauce.

Method: In a small saucepan (1 pint) mix the water, vinegar, pepper, tarragon and shallots. Bring to a boil; cook rapidly until almost all the liquid evaporates. Add to American Hollandaise Sauce in blender container; cover; turn motor on (at high speed) for 5 seconds. Makes about 1 cup.

Convict-Artists Win Ribbons In State-Wide Art Competition

By JAN DICKERSON
The Kansas City Star

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Amateur paintings on pieces of cardboard have been showing up at art competitions in Missouri recently and bringing the ribbons and trophies home—to the Missouri State Penitentiary.

"It's what you paint, not what you paint on, that counts," says Albert Bradford, 26, a life term inmate at the prison.

Bradford is one of the prize-winning members of a small art class taught in the prison school program by another life-terminer, S. N. Reese, 26.

Reese classifies himself as a beginner in art, but he is the teacher because he took a correspondence course in painting.

The reason the prisoners paint on cardboard is simple. Members of the class have to buy their own paints and canvases, and they are cutting corners on expenses.

The average prisoner's salary is $1.50 a month. Some of the men receive allowances from home, but the amount is restricted.

Bradford and Reese have proved "it's what you paint that counts" by winning the blue ribbons with their works. Their most recent awards were at the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia.

In a 2-year period, Reese has won five firsts in four shows. He won three in Jefferson City Art Club competitions, one at the Cole County Fair, and one at the State Fair.

Bradford, showing himself to be an apt pupil, has won two firsts, one each at the Cole County and State fairs.

"At first we thought the judges were making a misdirected attempt to encourage us," recalls Reese. "When you are in prison you grow skeptical of well-meaning people. But when we kept on winning, we realized the awards were valid."

A report of one judge's opinion of their works delighted the prisoners. The educational director of the penitentiary, Eldon F. DeWitt, told them the judge said:

"When I saw those men's paintings, I realized that viewing the other works had been like sipping pink tea."

A look at the water colors and oils by Reese and Bradford tells the meaning—behind the judge's statement. There is no violence in the paintings, but there is emotional impact.

The prisoners are reluctant to discuss the meanings of the works. A few questions, however, draw revealing comments.

Bradford, for instance, speaks of two of his works entitled "Grecian Ruins" and "Roman Ruins."

"I painted the Grecian ruins first, from a photograph I had seen. I used dark colors, mostly blues, because I was sort of brooding over the thought of how these ruins had once been something fine and beautiful. Still, there was a certain strength remaining in them."

"Next, I painted the Roman ruins. I remember I was depressed when I did it, and I tried to give a brooding atmosphere to the scene. But somehow it came out exciting, instead."

The one big difference between the second painting and the first, said, "It looks like a place where it would be nice to go and be alone with your thoughts. We don't get much solitude around here."

A painting from memory, of his room when he was a boy on a farm, won Reese first place in oils at the Sedalia fair. He said he changed the colors of the room from bright hues to shades of green, blue and mauve. The room is plain and bare and empty. The simple curtains at the window are lifted slightly, as though by a breeze.

The enthusiasm of the prisoners for their art study is evidenced by the fact that they devote 12 hours a day, five days a week, to it. School work is considered the same as a full-time job in the penitentiary.

Under the direction of Reese, the class has academic study in the mornings, and creative work in the afternoons.

And what do the student artists do for recreation in the evenings? Reese had a ready answer:

"We usually go back to our cells and paint some more."

Reese's paintings, through somber, seem to convey a different meaning than Bradford's. There is one which he calls "Monastic Interior," taken from a picture he saw in an old book. This painting of a large, empty, shadowy room within a monastery is his favorite. To him it does not appear threatening.

"It looks quiet and inviting," he said.

New Theory Of 'Cushions' Begins Test

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—January should see the start of the test of the new theory of business cycles—the theory that new cushions have been provided making unlikely any hard bumps.

These cushions helped ease the previous postwar recessions, those of 1949 and of 1953-54. But this time there are some conditions different from the earlier years.

These cushions that have been built in the last 25 years are such things as unemployment benefit payments that help keep consumer spending fairly high even when the jobless total is rising—some industries also have a modified form of unemployment insurance for their workers—and government pump priming through housing, highways and other public works.

To these has been added of late a planned stepup in government spending for defense.

What happened in 1957, as described today by the First National City Bank of New York in its monthly review of the economy, was "just a period of drifting followed by a gentle slide."

The question as January gets under way is whether the gentle slide will continue to be gentle for a few months or whether the cushions will prove inadequate to prevent a real drop before spring.

Industrial production has already dropped 5½ per cent from its peak, mostly in the last months of the year. In the two previous recessions it took about a year to bring production down 10 per cent.

The jobless total went to 4½ million in the 1949 setback and to 3½ million in 1954. It now tops three million and some say it will rise to four million soon and others think it may hit five million.

Consumer spending held high through both previous recessions. But there were two cushions then that we may not have this time: cuts in personal income taxes and pentup consumer demand for homes and appliances.

It's the trend in consumer buying that most economists think will determine how far down we slide.

The First National City Bank points out three other things that may determine how soon the economy will rally: 1. "the promptness with which business firms adjust their inventories;" 2. "the speed of the decline in plant and equipment spending;" and 3. "the amount and timing of fiscal and monetary measures to counteract recessionary trends."

"Second Family" Will Be Moving Into Dormitory

TRI CITY, Ky. (AP)—The "second family" of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Murdock, started when they took in three dependent children, has grown to dormitory proportions.

In just three years, the number has jumped to 16—12 boys and 4 girls. And as soon as the family moves to its new home, there'll be room for 24 more.

The new home—a 14-bedroom dormitory-like structure two miles from this southwestern Kentucky community—is now under construction and due to be ready for occupancy next summer. It will have facilities for 40 children.

The Murdock, who always wanted to care for unfortunate or homeless children, decided to carry out their plans after their own son and daughter had grown up, married and established homes of their own.

But they never dreamed their idea would blossom to such proportions. It also has a name—the Paradise Friendly Home—and a sponsor—the Bell City Church of Christ, of which Murdock is superintendent.

The children, who range in age from 3 to 16, attend school at Sedalia, where Mrs. Murdock teaches, and Murdock, a farmer, teaches the older boys farming.

Although the home is now under supervision of the State Welfare Department, no effort is made to place the children for adoption. The Murdock do all they can to provide as normal a home and family life as possible.

Test of Dependency: Over a Half Support

This is the last in a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants.

As you check over the list of people you intend to claim as dependents on your 1957 tax return, keep this phrase in mind; more than one-half support.

This is the test of dependency. Unless the money you have contributed during the year is enough to make up more than one-half of a dependent's living costs, you might as well cross that person off your list. He or she will not qualify as a dependent for tax purposes — and you will lose a valuable $600 exemption on your 1957 return.

Taxpayers with children who work part-time or during the summer should watch this angle closely. It's not how much your child earns during the year — it's how much he contributes to his own support. The law specifically states: a parent may claim an exemption for a child, stepchild or adopted child under 19 years of age, no matter how much he earned, provided the child depended on the parent for more than one-half of his support.

Bank Child's Earnings.

Here is an important point to

New Frontiers For National Foundation

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (AP)—Broad hints have been made that the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis may take under its wing other diseases — possibly under the heading of virus research.

One of these hints came from Dr. Jonas Salk of the University of Pittsburgh. In a speech he delivered recently, the vaccine discoverer said: "The significance for the future is that the National Foundation will go on being a foundation for whatever it will do."

"To this name something may be added in place of 'infantile paralysis'; but this will not change the fundamental character of the institution that has become the instrument whereby people can do for themselves, and their fellow man, what might not otherwise be done."

His voice is not an official one, but his name is bound to be closely identified in the public mind with the Salk vaccine and the fight against polio.

"We await eagerly to learn of the direction of the National Foundation of the future, but we do this without concern because we are sure that the people will continue to support the search for truth in answer to the questions for the present and of the future," he said.

There is no official confirmation that the National Foundation will indeed focus its attention on other medical problems.

But supporters are playing on that theme, among them Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who founded the organization.

Mrs. Roosevelt told the National Foundation's 20th anniversary celebration that in addition to rehabilitation efforts, the polio foundation would broaden its research.

"It plans to open wider the doors to new knowledge that will prevent suffering, alleviate pain, improve health," she said.

Willing Workers Have Regular Meet

The Willing Workers 4-H Club met at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Blackwater 100 School.

The meeting was called to order by Richard Best. Cheryl Wright led in singing "Old Black Joe" and Jean Ann Mitchell led the pledges to the flags. Year books were passed out.

Joe Vogelario gave a talk on improving the club: cooperation with the parents, leaders and members being essential.

remember when you are trying to decide whether you have contributed the necessary amount: the money a youngster banks or invests is not considered to be a contribution to his own support costs. Check carefully to see how much of your child's earnings has gone for his support. You may find that it will save an exemption on the family return if you have him bank his earnings for the rest of the year.

A child 19 or over may not be claimed as a dependent unless he is attending school on a full-time basis or earning less than $600 a year. The $600 earnings maximum does not apply to students. You may claim a dependency exemption for a student, regardless of total income, so long as you fulfill the support test requirement.

Supporting Relative

If you have helped support a relative during the year, make sure that what you have contributed is enough to permit you to claim an exemption for this dependent. For example, you may have paid approximately $650 of your mother's $1,400 living expenses. By contributing another $55 or $60 to her support before Dec. 31, you can push the total over the more-than-half mark of $700 and gain an additional exemption.

Or, if you shared with others in the support of a parent, take steps now to insure that one of you can qualify for an exemption. Make sure, first of all, that your combined contributions were enough to total more than one-half of the parent's living expenses. Then, have all the members of the group that contributed 10 per cent or more of the parent's support sign Multiple Support Agreements, granting one signer of the agreement permission to claim the full exemption.

Claim All Exemptions

Exemptions cannot be juggled, shifted, bunched or pyramided to gain a tax advantage — but they can be overlooked. Be sure to claim all the exemptions you properly can, because each one reduces your taxable income by $600. Remember that to qualify for an exemption a dependent must:

(1) Have received more than one-half of his support from you, unless you file Multiple Support Agreements (which may be obtained at any Internal Revenue Office).

(2) Have less than $600 gross income for 1957, unless he or she is your child and under 19, or a full-time student.

(3) Not file a joint return.

(4) Live with you (absence while attending school does not interfere), or be a close relative as specifically defined in the official instruction book, or be a cousin receiving institutional care for a mental or physical disability who had lived with you before going to the institution.

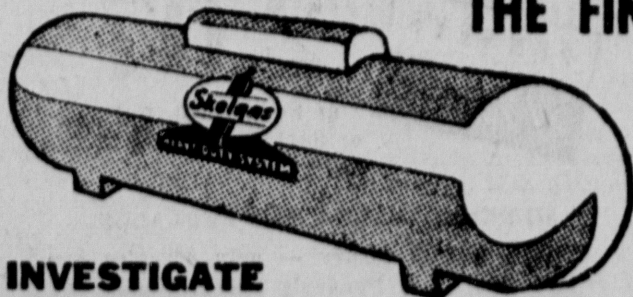

(5) Be either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the U. S., Canada, Mexico, Panama and in some cases, a serviceman's child living in the Philippines.

Your exemptions usually depend on whether you and your dependents qualify under these rules at the end of the year. However, if your spouse died during the year, you may file a joint return and take the same exemptions that both of you would have otherwise had for the full year. Similarly, if a dependent died during the year, the rules are applied as of the time of his death.

If you are supporting dependents but are not able to file a joint return because you are unmarried, you may be able to qualify as the "head of a household" and be entitled to use a special schedule of tax rates that gives you half the benefits of income-splitting. In a situation where, say, a son lives with his widowed mother and shares expenses equally, the son may have to contribute a few extra dollars before the end of the year to qualify as the head of a household.

Each year millions of taxpayers put off filing their tax returns until the April deadline. The last minute rush to avoid a late filing penalty produces not only long lines at Internal Revenue Service offices, but also many careless mistakes by taxpayers. Prepare your tax return carefully and file it early. Help is available from the IRS, which urges you to consult a properly qualified advisor if you need outside assistance.

Teenagers Spurn Many Offers Of Federal, State and City Jobs

By Eugene Gilbert

The nation's largest employer soon may have trouble finding recruits to fill its jobs.

"Who wants to work for the government?" asks 16-year-old Betty Tutten of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. "There's no future in it."

An overwhelming majority of the teen-agers in the country seem to agree with her. Less than 4 per cent of the young people we contacted in a nationwide survey said they would like to work for the government. Some 45 per cent said they had never given it the slightest thought, and the rest wanted no part of it.

Why? What's wrong with working for the federal, state or city government?

Time was when almost everybody was looking for a civil service position.

When the great waves of immigration were sweeping over this country in the late 19th Century and still later in the mass unemployment of the great Depression in the 30s, government jobs were avidly sought and highly prized.

Young people setting out in life thronged by thousands to civil service examinations. Sometimes riots resulted. To be a policeman, a letter carrier or a grade one clerk, in those days, was to be a person of no little stature in the neighborhood. "He works for the government," people would say approvingly, even enviously.

In an era of chronic unemployment, lingering bread lines and sweat shop labor conditions, government employees could look forward to steady weekly pay checks—often quite handsome under the circumstances—paid vacations, an eight hour day, extensive retirement benefits and humane working conditions.

Most of all, the government offered job security.

The government still offers jobs security—and, as our recent surveys have demonstrated—young people are still vitally interested in security.

But a majority of young people are not interested in government jobs.

What has brought about this change in attitude toward working for the government? The problem gripped us, as it no doubt already grips civil service policy planners. In attempting to find out why the nation's teen-agers shy away from government work, we got an inkling of what they are looking for in the whole field of employment, private and public.

First, we asked what they liked about government jobs, what was the greatest attraction.

Security, that elusive treasure hunted so desperately for generations by the great army of the unemployed, still shone as brightly as ever. It ranked in first place among the advantages of working for the government with nearly 40 per cent of both boys and girls interviewed.

Next came prestige and self-satisfaction, as sanctioned by 26 per cent of the boys and 16 per cent of the girls.

Fair and equal opportunities for advancement appealed to 16 per cent of the boys and 11 per cent of the girls. Pension benefits were cited by less than 5 per cent of the young people, and good wages drew a response of only 1 per cent.

Even more revealing were the teen- aged broadsides leveled against working for the government.

What are the drawbacks we asked.

They had no hesitancy telling us. "Low wages," "not much chance for advancement," "no outlet for drive or different ideas," "little recognition for so much aggravation"—these are only a sampling of the comments, but they echo the majority.

More than 54 per cent of the boys and 45 per cent of the girls listed low wages as the major drawback of government employment.

The government pay scale, once a heavy inducement, holds little attraction for today's high school students, who soon will be heading out to hunt for jobs.

Even the cream of the government's job crop, like the diplomatic service, left something to be desired in the pay envelope among these teen-agers.

"The only government jobs I know about are the diplomatic ones—and they don't pay," complained 17-year-old Martin Bennett of Philadelphia.

Young people also seemed troubled by government security requirements and Hatch Act provisions against political activity in civil service jobs.

To 29 per cent of the boys and 31 per cent of the girls working for the government meant surrendering to certain restrictions on self expression.

Less than 4 per cent thought the government's education and experience requirements were too high and less than 2 per cent worried about advancement opportunities.

But a surprising number of youngsters—23 per cent of the boys and 27 per cent of the girls—said one reason they never gave a thought to working for the government is that they seldom heard about government job opportunities.

"We just don't hear much about it," said 15-year-old Allan Herbert of Gary, Ind.

Dolores Cooper, 15, of Los Angeles, said her schoolmates were taught a good deal about the government but very little about the people who work for it—"so we never think of working for it."

With the exception of security, the tangibles and intangibles that once attracted people to work for the government are now regarded by teenagers as drawbacks. They no longer regard a federal, state or city worker as well paid, self satisfied and a person of prestige in the community.

Has the government priced itself out of the job market? Or have increased educational opportunities and continuing prosperity taken the bloom off civil service?

The answer to both these questions would seem to be "yes" from the nation's teen-agers, but "no" from the current crop of job seekers.

According to James Nelson of the Civil Service Commission information office in Washington, D. C., more than 160,000 applications have been received in the past two years for positions requiring college training, such as statisticians, economists, etc.

Nelson says the rate at which job seekers are applying for jobs with college prerequisites is higher than at any other time in Civil Service history.

The government, he adds, is short of certain types of professional workers for whom there is a great demand, such as scientists and engineers, but there is little shortage at the clerk-typist level except in Washington and a few other large cities.

"The government is always seeking young, talented, college-calibre people to become administrators and professional workers," Nelson concluded.

Whether teen-agers will change their opinions about working for the government when they become job hunters remains to be seen.

New Concept In Treating Mentally Ill

BALTIMORE (AP)—The spacious room is warmly decorated. There is a homelike fireplace at one end. Couches, chairs and tables are tastefully arranged.

This is a medical ward at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Only recently established amid the usually stark hospital surroundings, it represents a new concept in the treatment of mentally ill.

The room and the sun porch beyond it serve as the daytime "home" for a small group of persons being treated for various psychiatric disorders. They come at 9 a.m. and go home at 4:30.

Dr. William D. Wheat, who set up and is in charge of the ward, says it is the only one of its kind on the Eastern Seaboard. Results have been gratifying, he said, at the first—in Montreal, Canada.

The ward accommodates a maximum of 15 persons. The number is kept small to maintain a closely knit, family-like atmosphere, important for this type of treatment. The average patient spends about six weeks in the ward.

The entire group meets each day for discussions under the leadership of a nurse with psychiatric training. In addition, a psychiatrist from the staff of Hopkins' Phipps Psychiatric Clinic conducts two group-therapy sessions each week.

Group therapy, a rather recent psychiatric technique, is not intended to replace individual therapy.

But Dr. Wheat said patients often find they can "thaw out" and express their feelings more easily when other persons around them are voicing personal difficulties. In addition, their reactions to others in the group may help the patients see more clearly how they react to family members and others.

Besides the group meetings, Dolores Cooper, 15, of Los Angeles, said her schoolmates were taught a good deal about the government but very little about the people who work for it—"so we never think of working for it."

With the exception of security, the tangibles and intangibles that once attracted people to work for the government are now regarded by teenagers as drawbacks. They no longer regard a federal, state or city worker as well paid, self satisfied and a person of prestige in the community.

Whether teen-agers will change their opinions about working for the government when they become job hunters remains to be seen.

each person in Dr. Wheat's day-care ward has one or two sessions of individual psychotherapy each week.

Since the patient is home at night and in the early morning, he never loses touch with the community. There also is no sharp adjustment when hospital treatment ends.

The cost is less for the patient than it would be if he were admitted to the hospital on a full-time basis. For the hospital, beds are freed for patients who require day-and-night attention.

Nehru Is Being Sued After He Declares Cow, Horse Similar

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru is being sued on a complaint of causing mental agony to a fellow politician by comparing a cow and a horse.

Nehru's opponent in the last general elections, Pandit Sitaram Khemka, said the provocation came in a speech by the Prime Minister Feb. 6 at Allahabad.

Nehru, says the complaint, remarked he saw no difference between the cow and the horse, both being equally dear and useful to human beings.

Khemka, a learned and orthodox Hindu Brahmin—Nehru, too, is a Brahmin—protested that the cow is the most sacred animal for the Hindus and to compare it with the horse is a sacrilege.

In a complaint filed before an Allahabad magistrate, Khemka said "Mr. Nehru has injured my religious feelings and has caused me mental agony."

He asked 100,000 rupees damages, but said he would be content with one rupee—21 cents—since "Mr. Nehru claims he has not saved a pie." A pie is worth a fifth of a cent.

Reds Sentence Bishop To Long Prison Term

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has re-arrested Bishop Joseph Hu of Taichow and sentenced him and two other clerics to long prison terms, the Catholic Sunday Examiner reported.

The 75-year-old bishop, who was imprisoned in 1955 and later released, was seized again recently on a charge of being a counter-revolutionary, the weekly church paper said.

It quoted a Communist broadcast from Hangchow.

The priests were Father Paul Su, apostolic minister of the diocese of Yunkia, and Father Joseph Wang, acting bishop of Ningpo diocese.

The three clergymen were given sentences ranging from 10 to 20 years, the broadcast said. It did not specify the individual penalties.

The Catholic paper said that of 30 Chinese bishops still in China, about half are now in jail.

1958 Business Climbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks says he expects the nation's present business slowdown to give way to a high level of business activity in 1958.

"1957 was spurt then sag," he said in a statement yesterday. "1958 looks more like mild dip then climb."

The secretary added the administration will "act vigorously with every means at its disposal" to promote prosperity.

"The immediate economic situation may not be as rosy as we all want," he said. "But from where I sit the 12-month outlook is far better than nail-biting pessimists think. The shower isn't over yet, but the sun shows signs of breaking through the clouds."

Weeks said 1957 was the most prosperous year in the nation's history, and that no new year ever started with the over-all economy on such a high level as it is today.
